ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

ONLY ST. LOUIS EVENING NEWSPAPER WITH ASSOCIATED PRESS DISPATCHES.

7th EDITION

VOL. 60. NO. 30. ST. LOUIS, FRIDAY EVENING, SEPTEMBER 20, 1907 PRICE ONE CENT

FOOD NEVER SO HIGH AND ALL BLAME TRUSTS

Four Necessities of Life Have Advanced From 25 to 35 Per Cent.

NO RELIEF IS IN SIGHT

Retailers Throw Up Their Hands and Declare They Are Powerless.

HOW NECESSITIES OF LIFE HAVE ADVANCED IN PRICE.

Here are the principal advances in the cost of necessities in St. Louis compared with last year:

Porterhouse steak from 25 to 30 cents a pound; other cuts increased an average of 20 per cent.

Poultry of all kinds 5 cents a pound.

Milk from 5 cents to 8 cents a quart.

Butter from 28 cents to 35 cents a pound.

Bread advanced by some dealers by decreasing the size of the loaf one-fifth.

Rolls from 10 cents to 12 cents a dozen; pies from 10 cents to 15 cents; pastries 25 per cent.

Canned fruits cost 10 per cent more than last year, and there will be a further increase.

Coal advanced an average of 20 cents a ton Sept. 1, and will go higher.

New demands in the cost of living are piling up on the struggling masses.

Four necessities of life—meat, bread, milk and coal—have all advanced, and the butcher, the baker and the dealer all cry, "Don't blame us! It's the 'combination—the trusts."

All agree, too, that there is no relief in sight. Beef is from 20 to 25 per cent higher; bread in some cases 25 per cent and coal 20 cents higher on the ton by the latest raise.

A beefsteak that last year cost 25 cents costs 28 to 30 cents a pound. The poorer cuts have advanced from 5 to 7 cents a pound, and other cuts from 9 to 12 cents wholesale. Retail beef that sold for 10 cents a pound last year today sells for 12. Chops have advanced from 22 cents to 25 cents, and loins and ribs from 25 cents to 28 and 30 cents.

While the price of a loaf of bread has not been advanced, in many shops the loaf has been reduced in size one-fifth.

Milk has been advanced from 5 to 8 cents a quart by many dealers.

Poultry brings 5 cents a pound more than at this time last year. Eggs are higher than ever, and butter which sold for 28 cents last year now brings 35.

Fruit Is Out of Sight.

What is St. Louis going to eat? Fruit has soared out of sight and if any housewives are looking forward to relief in canned goods, they might as well learn now that all canned goods have advanced to doubit former prices.

"The individual dealers can charge for meat according to their judgment," said a dealer, "but meat that brought 25 cents a pound last year now brings 30 cents right here. In the retail shops meat that was sold for 15 cents a pound last year is now sold for 20 and 25 cents."

"We are helpless in this matter. The Beef Trust can raise the prices whenever it wishes, and we have to follow to protect ourselves.

"Meats have advanced from 25 to 30 per cent over last year.

"If the combination says there is a shortage of meat it is easily explained by the fact that the trust practically controls the beef on the hoof. Naturally, if they are not killed the supply is decreased, but in my opinion there is no necessity for the latest increase in prices."

Loaf of Bread Made Smaller.

"We have been fighting against raising the price of bread," said a baker, "but we will have to do it owing to the increased cost of bread materials. Flour which a year ago cost $4.75 a barrel now costs us $5.75, an increase of a dollar on the barrel.

"We have increased the price of rolls from 10 cents to 12 cents a dozen and bread will have to be increased also.

"Pies which sold for 10 cents will sell for 15 cents; apple dumplings have gone from 3 to 5 cents, and other pastries from 4 to 5 cents. This is due to the scarcity of fruits.

"Canned fruit which we purchased at $2 a dozen cans last year now costs just twice that."

"Milk has increased in price," said a prominent dairyman, "because there's a real milk famine. The dry season and the growing restrictions of pasture lands is responsible for this. The increase in population also has much to do with it."

Coal Goes Up 20 Cents.

"Coal has increased 20 cents on the ton," said a dealer, "but we cannot help it. The railroad combine which controls the supply is responsible. We are absolutely helpless. We received notice that all coal would be advanced 20 cents on the ton on Sept. 1, and of course we had to act accordingly. The whole increase in cost of living in St. Louis can be traced to the trusts."

Although the meat trade blames the increased prices on the "combination," a representative of Swift's denied all knowledge of a perceptible rise in meats.

"There is a slight increase," he said, "but it is due to the lack of good meat. That is all; the combination is not responsible."

NATHAN SIMMONS, J. P., GETS AN $8.50 JOKE ON 25-CENT CITY JOKER

He Refused to Pay for Privilege of Looking at Skyscrapers on Demand.

Nathan Simmons, Justice of the Peace at Thompsonville, Ill., is not one of the sort of rural dwellers who buy income tax receipts from strangers who visit their homes, and who pay admission fees to men standing at public park entrances when they visit the city.

He told in the City Hall Police Court Friday how Emil Siekmann had tried to persuade him to pay for the privilege of viewing the downtown skyscrapers. Siekmann was in court as defendant on the charge of disturbing Simmons' peace. He was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $8.50.

Simmons, J. P., was standing at Sixth and Chestnut streets, surveying the surrounding architecture, when Siekmann approached him and informed him that it would cost him 25 cents an hour to view the tall buildings.

"You get away or I'll call a policeman," said Simmons, J. P.

"I'm the chief of police myself," responded Siekmann.

"Well, if you're going to raise me that way, I'll call you," said Simmons, J. P. "I know a little law my own self. Down where I come from they call me judge."

He beckoned to a policeman, and Siekmann's protestations that it was all a joke did not prevent an arrest. Neither did the same plea save him when Judge O'Hallaron heard the story.

"If it was a joke," said the Court, "it's on you, and you're the one who pays." Siekmann paid. He said he was an expert accountant, and lived at 6633 Villa avenue.

BURGLAR RAID ONLY A MESSENGER SHOOTING HIS MAN BY MATCH LIGHT

Residents in the 4300 block on Lindell boulevard had a burglar scare Thursday night. About midnight the telephone at police headquarters rang and an excited feminine voice at the other end of the wire notified Night Chief Gillaspy that a desperate gang of house breakers was raiding the neighborhood.

"They tried to get in here a few minutes ago," said the voice, "and now they're going east toward Mayor Wells' house.

"I saw the flashes from their dark lantern. They were examining the keyhole."

Sergeant Sullivan and patrolmen were hurried from the Newstead Avenue Station. They found a lot of frightened residents and a burglar hunt was instituted.

In the 4200 block the police found a lonely little messenger boy.

"Did you see any burglars around here, sonny?" asked Sergeant Sullivan.

"Naw, I ain't seen nothing around here," replied the boy tearfully. "I've been nearly an hour looking for a man I got a message for, but I can't find his house. I've been looking at all the numbers and now I ain't got no more matches."

The frightened residents then returned to sleep.

PAID FOR CANDY WITH STAMPS

John J. Byrnes, 14, and Frank Brickschulte, 14, Arrested.

Soda water and candies purchased with 2-cent stamps led to the arrest of John J. Byrnes, aged 14, of 6743 Robin avenue, and Frank Brickschulte, aged 14, of 6142 Minerva avenue. The boys made several visits to Louis Herschert's grocery store at 6142 Ridge avenue and purchased candy and soda pop.

They tendered 2-cent stamps to pay for the goods. The grocer's suspicions were aroused and he reported the boys to the police. The boys are in the House of Detention, awaiting trial in the Juvenile Court. They say they got the stamps from a third boy, who has not been found by the police.

FOURTEEN MEN DROP TO DEATH IN MINE CAGE

Several Are Seriously Injured in Disaster at Marquette, Michigan.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

MARQUETTE, Mich., Sept. 20.—While a cage filled with men was being lowered into the Negaunee mine it fell to the bottom of the shaft and 14 men were killed and a number were injured.

The cage was filled with miners and everyone in it was either killed or seriously injured.

The steel cable broke and the cage dropped 700 feet. The bodies have been taken out and the injured men are being cared for.

The mine is the property of the Jones-Laughlin Steel Co. of Pittsburg.

Death of Miss Alma Robertson.

Miss Alma Robertson, aged 20, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mont Robertson of 1428 South Eighteenth street, died Thursday at 9:25 p. m., after an illness of about four weeks. Her death was said to be due to a tumor on the stomach.

MAN'S REPEATED PROTESTS GAIN BRIDE FOR HIM

Adolph Germer Goes to Complain to Editor and Meets Secretary.

RETURNS FREQUENTLY

Did Not Approve Article in Indianapolis Paper About Union.

Adolph F. Germer of East St. Louis "kicked" himself into matrimony.

He did his "kicking" at a newspaper office. When the editor wasn't accessible, Germer would file his kicks with the editor's private secretary. Now he is going to marry her.

Miss Mabel LaRue is the name of the private secretary. It will continue to be her name until Sunday. That evening the ceremony making her Mrs. Germer will be performed at her parents' home in Indianapolis.

That's where the editor edits. His paper is one of the large dailies of the Indiana capital. Frequently it has criticized the Miners' Union.

Is Union Official.

Germer is vice-president of sub-district No. 6 of the United Mine Workers' Union of America. He was a delegate to the miners' convention in Indianapolis two years ago. Frank J. Hayes, district secretary of the miners, also of East St. Louis, was a delegate, too.

The editor printed what the miners termed an "awful roast" on their organization. Germer and Hayes were so indignant that they bearded the editor in his sanctum to denounce him. But they didn't. The editor happened to be "out" when they called.

But Miss LaRue was there. Couldn't she do anything for the gentlemen? Not for Hayes. His rage was such that he left without waiting.

But Germer thought differently. He "kicked" to Miss La Rue, and she seemed to sweetly sympathize with the miners' official.

Calls Become a Joke.

Next day Germer went back to "see the editor." Soon it became a "joke" among the Miners' Union officials that Germer was going "to see the editor."

But it was a very pleasant practical joke. Germer continued "going" until Miss La Rue promised to marry him.

Hayes, who refused the opportunity originally presented to Germer and himself jointly, will be best man.

Germer and Hayes started for Indianapolis Friday morning.

MAN'S HAIR TORN FROM HIS HEAD IN FIGHT IN ELEVATOR

The police are looking for a man whose hair was torn from his head in an elevator in the building of the Richard Mills Cloak Co. at Seventh and St. Charles streets. They want to prosecute him for disturbing the peace of the elevator boy, Fred Munter of 6213 Gravois avenue.

Munter runs the freight elevator. The agents for the building asked the cloak firm to shut off the power for a time so that a force of men could clean it and inspect the ropes. Munter, knowing nothing about this request, continued to run the elevator. He was at the first floor when one of the workmen sent to clean the elevator rushed up to him and upbraided him for not stopping while the work was being done.

He struck at Hunter, who clutched at the rope to steady himself and thus started the elevator. The man and the boy fought while the car ascended to the top floor. There it struck an automatic reverse clutch and started down again. The fight continued until the first floor was reached. There the man's hair was pulled off.

Munter still has the wig. It is black and curly and parted in the middle.

SHOWERS TONIGHT TO BRING MUCH COOLER WEATHER TOMORROW

THE TEMPERATURE.

Midnight,	74	10 a. m.	78
2 a. m.	74	12 noon	81
4 a. m.	73	1 p. m.	83
6 a. m.	72	2 p. m.	86
8 a. m.	73	3 p. m.	87

Now will you shake your old straw hat? If you don't you'll catch a lovely cold, for the Weather Man says it is going to be much cooler and there may be a drop of 20 degrees before Saturday morning.

Before the cool wave comes along there is going to be some wetness, too. Rain may be looked for almost any time, and after the clouds have been squeezed dry a wind will come from the northwest and blow them all away.

Recent rains will cause a rise in the river in the next 24 hours. The present stage is 5.4, a fall of .3.

HUSBAND AND HIS ERSTWHILE AFFINITY WHO NOW SENDS HIM BACK TO HIS WIFE

MRS GERTRUDE STUCKENBERG

FRANK M. DUMONT

"ARREST MY HUSBAND!" "NO, HE'S MY AFFINITY"

Widow and Wife Clash at Summer Garden Over Frank M. Dumont, but Widow Yields After Night in Detention.

Mrs. Gertrude Stuckenberg, a brunette young widow, reconsidered her "affinity" declarations regarding Frank M. Dumont Friday at police headquarters and weepingly declared that she had been trying for weeks to rid herself of his attentions and to make him return to his wife, Mrs. Ella Dumont, of 3528 Cozens avenue.

Informations were issued against Dumont and Mrs. Stuckenberg Friday, charging them with improper conduct in a house at Vandeventer and Evans avenues.

When Mrs. Dumont pointed out her husband Thursday afternoon at his place of business in West End Heights, the young widow, who sat near, exclaimed:

"What are you coming here for? I am Frank's affinity, and he loves me more than he does you."

Mrs. Dumont looked at the other woman and said, quietly: "My husband has children to support."

Mrs. Stuckenberg paid no attention to the remark. "My father has $50,000, and I will spend it all on Frank," she replied.

Then the detectives entered the dialogue. Mrs. Stuckenberg said she and Dumont had rented a flat ten days ago. When they told her that she must go to the police station, she said: "Then you will have to place me in the same cell with Frank. I want to comfort him."

In the patrol wagon they sat close together and held a whispered conversation.

Changed Mind Over Night.

After a night's reflection in the police detention room, Mrs. Stuckenberg expressed entire willingness to give Dumont up to his wife.

Mrs. Dumont, a frail, dark woman, in applying for a warrant against her husband, declared that he deserted her a year ago, leaving her with two small children.

Mrs. Dumont said Friday that she did not want her husband back, but that she did want him to provide for the children. She said they had been separated from him for a year.

Mrs. Stuckenberg is the widow of an Alton man who was fatally shot two years ago. She is 21 years old. Mrs. Dumont is 25.

Dumont said that sympathy for Mrs. Stuckenberg, whose husband he knew before he was killed, had resulted in the growth of the "affinity" feeling between them.

MOTHER NEAR, YOUTH AGED 17 DRINKS POISON

Harry Rodgers Ends His Life as Girl Did Lately in Same House.

Harry Rodgers, 17 years old, who has been living with his parents at 907 Tyler street, committed suicide at 5:30 o'clock Friday morning by drinking carbolic acid.

His mother, Mrs. John Rodgers, was sweeping out the back yard when she heard groans coming from the kitchen. Entering, she found her son bending over the sink, apparently in great agony. He told her that he had taken carbolic acid and immediately toppled over on the floor unconscious.

Dr. A. F. Kleykamp was called, but Rodgers died at 6:10 o'clock. Members of the family stated they knew no reason why the young man should have taken his life.

Dr. Kleykamp says that about six months ago Minnie Gross, a young girl who lived in the house, committed suicide.

OLD WOMAN HIT BY STREET CAR

Mrs. Marco's Right Arm Broken and Her Head Cut.

Mrs. Frances Marco, a widow, 70 years old, of 2317 Victor street, was struck by a southbound Jefferson car as she was crossing at Gravois street Friday afternoon.

Her right arm was broken and her head cut. She was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital, where it is said that on account of her age her condition is serious.

CUPID STEERED AUTO ON SPINS WITH WIDOW

The Lochinvar that came out of the West End and claimed Mrs. Lucia Wolfe as his bride was not young and he rode no prancing steed. An up-to-date Lochinvar, he came with a big touring car.

It was in the tonneau of his own automobile two months ago that Edward F. Lasar of 5289 Vernon avenue, president of the Lasar-Letsig Manufacturing Co., first met Mrs. Wolfe of 1004 North King's highway, who became his bride at Springfield, Ill., Thursday.

One fine summer night a few weeks ago Mr. Lasar in a new touring car drove up to the curb near Mrs. Wolfe's home. He had come to take two neighbors, a married couple, for a spin.

Just as he was about to start the machine he said: "The tonneau is so large we ought to have someone else to go with us." The friends suggested Mrs. Wolfe. She readily accepted the invitation and stepped into the tonneau, where she was introduced to Mr. Lasar.

Courtship Was Speedy.

The host of the evening found her a charming companion and, at the conclusion of the ride, asked permission to call again and take her for another ride. She granted the request and the romance begun in the touring car developed rapidly.

Thursday Mr. Lasar and Mrs. Wolfe, accompanied by Mrs. G. F. A. Brueggeman of 727 Clarendon avenue, went to Springfield, Ill., where Mr. Lasar and Mrs. Wolfe were married by Rev. James T. Rogers of the Third Presbyterian Church at 12:30 p. m.

Returning to St. Louis the party went to the Mercantile Club, where they were joined at a wedding supper by W. S. Eames, architect, a friend of Mr. Lasar.

WOMAN TORTURED TO DEATH IN ZION CITY; 5 ARRESTED

Aged Victim's Son Admits He Stifled Her Screams While Others "Cast Out Spirits."

THEN A WOMAN LED IN A "RESURRECTION" SCENE

Because Mrs. Greenhaulgh Suffered for Years With Rheumatism, "Religious" Enthusiasts Believed Demon Possessed Her and They Wrenched Her Limbs Until She Died.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Five members of the sect of "Parhamites" are under arrest in Zion City, accused of torturing to death Mrs. Letitia Greenhaulgh, 64 years old, a cripple for 20 years, in order to show their belief in the "religion" they profess. Those arrested are Walter and Jennie Greenhaulgh, the son and daughter of the woman; Harold Mitchell, Mrs. Harold Mitchell and a Mrs. W. Smith. Mrs. Greenhaulgh had been for 20 years an invalid, suffering from paralysis and rheumatism.

The sect of Parhamites was founded about a year ago by Charles F. Parham and numbers about 300 persons. Its members originally belonged to Dowie's church and they believed in the "gift of tongues," and especially in diabolical possession. It is their theory that sickness is an evidence of the possession of the body by evil spirits.

The condition of Mrs. Greenhaulgh convinced her son and daughter and the three persons arrested with them that she must be possessed of evil spirits and they determined to exorcise the evil spirit. The five knelt by the bedside, and, after prayer, commenced their work. The arms of Mrs. Greenhaulgh, stiffened by rheumatism, were twisted and jerked in order that the evil spirit might be driven out. The cries of the aged woman were considered to be those of an evil spirit, and, it is alleged, were greeted with triumphant shouts. After a course of this violent treatment Mrs. Greenhaulgh not only became so weak that she could not use her limbs, but became incapable of making any motions. Then her neck was twisted and for some time this treatment was kept up.

Says He Had a Vision.

Walter Greenhaulgh testified at the Coroner's inquest that Mitchell and his wife recently had a "vision" in which Mitchell was ordered to quit work and devote his time to casting out demons from the sick. Young Greenhaulgh declared that his mother's consent was obtained before the treatment was commenced. He declared that hypnotic passes were made before his mother's face and then followed the muscular force, which, he said, was strongly resisted by the "demons."

Mrs. Smith's part in the treatment, according to the testimony before the Coroner's jury, consisted in raising Mrs. Greenhaulgh's head and holding her while Mitchell and his wife attempted to straighten the woman's limbs, which had been twisted by years of rheumatism.

Screamed in Agony.

Greenhaulgh broke down and cried as he told his story. He declared that for some time his mother bore the treatment bravely, but at last the agony became so great that she could not restrain herself and she shrieked, "Oh, Lord, help me!" a number of times. According to Greenhaulgh, Mitchell declared that her cries must not be heard by outsiders and he put his hand across her mouth to smother them.

The five worked over the victim until she died, shortly before noon. According to Greenhaulgh, Mrs. Smith then became the leader in a "resurrection scene." Efforts were made to restore the dead woman to life. When these had failed the announcement of her death was made.

The case is being further investigated today by the authorities of Lake County, in which Zion City is situated.

The Son's Statement.

At the inquest Coroner Taylor ordered Walter Greenhaulgh to take the witness stand.

"Now, Mr. Greenhaulgh," said Deputy Conrad, "we want to know just exactly what occurred in this house when your mother died."

"My mother had been suffering from rheumatism for 20 years," he began. "For some months she had received no treatment. Her arms and legs were crooked and twisted by the disease, and she was helpless. We wanted to do something for her. We did not know what to do.

"Wednesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell came to our house. They told me that they had had a vision, in which God had told them to cease their work, and that I should stop work. In that vision they said God had told them to come to my mother and help me cast out demons.

"Our belief is that when one is sick it is because of the demons which possess you. We must start work at once. Afterward I gave Mitchell $30. Not for the ceremony he performed, but because God told me to do it."

"What was the ceremony you mention?" asked the Coroner.

"We went into mother's room and told her that the ceremony was to begin. She said nothing. Mitchell took her by one hand and pulled it away from her body. She screamed terribly. I did not know what to do. I jumped forward, but Mitchell held me back.

"Mitchell put his hand over my mother's mouth. He choked off her cries. He stopped her.

"'What are you doing?' I cried. 'Don't hurt her.'

"Demons Screamed."

"He looked at me, and then said: 'Of course I shall not hurt her. Those cries are not her cries. That is the screaming of the demons and devils as they leave her. She is all right.'

"It was hard for me to believe, but I waited. Then he stepped back from beside mother and made some strange motions, like a hypnotist. He said many strange things. The light was turned low. Mother moaned. Sister and I could hardly bear it.

"Then Mitchell and his wife again drew near the body. They took her arms and pulled them out straight. There was a cracking sound. I found out afterwards they broke the bones. They did the same with her legs. They pulled at her head. They pinched and worked with her flesh. She groaned and cried out. That, he said, was the demons leaving her body. She would be all right, he said again.

"Then mother seemed to be quiet. After looking at me, she said: 'I was in hell; I am in heaven now.'

Begged Him to Stop.

"I took heart. I thought she meant that she was getting better. I believed that God was helping her. When she said this they started work with a renewed vigor. I again became frightened because of that awful look of pain in her face. I asked them to stop.

"My mother cried out to God. She begged to him for help. She said: 'Oh, Lord, help me.' Again I begged them to be careful. Mitchell told me not to be afraid; that she was getting better; that she was helping by praying to God. Then they began work on her hip. As they worked I saw blood there. I was frightened. I demanded of Mitchell what it meant.

"'Oh, that's just corruption that is coming out with the demons,' he explained.

"At this moment mother seemed seized with a wonderful strength. She struggled and fought, although her arms and legs were broken, and they took her by the head. The next moment she fell back. There was no more struggle. She was dead."

FATHER AND SON HURT IN COLLISION WITH STREET CAR

One Horse So Badly Injured That a Policeman Shoots It in the Street.

Thomas King, 42 years old, and John King, his son, 22 years old, both living at 5708 South road, were severely bruised and cut when a wagon they were in was struck by a Maplewood car at Manchester and Macklind avenues. Both were thrown out.

Passengers of the car were excited when a sheet of flame from the controller box started a blaze immediately after the crash. The fire was soon extinguished.

The two injured men received treatment and were taken home. One of the horses was shot by a policeman.

SCAR SUDDENLY LOOMS UP AT HUMPHREY TRIAL

Two Witnesses Say Policeman Had It Night He Killed Ambulance Driver.

VICTIM WAS UNARMED

Warned Man Who Killed Him That He Did Not Have Even a Toothpick.

WIDOW MEETS WIFE

Mrs. Guy and Defendant's Bride Come Face to Face in Court.

An angry red scar on the left cheekbone of Patrolman Thomas Humphrey, on trial charged with deliberately killing Daniel Guy, a city ambulance driver, is the latest development in the plea of self-defense on which theory Humphrey's attorneys are proceeding.

Thomas Freeland, a police clerk in the Central District, and Policeman Henry Relf testified before the noon recess Friday of how they discovered the scar on Humphrey's face after he was suspended by Capt. Reynolds, the night of the killing, June 8, and locked up at police headquarters.

Freeland described the scar as scarlet with a tinge of blue directly beneath the lower lid, with a slight abrasion on the point of the cheekbone. Relf's description left out the blue, but tallied otherwise. No testimony was offered by the defense to show that Guy struck Humphrey.

With the testimony of William Reeves of Chaffee, Mo., the State rested. The defense began its testimony by placing on the stand John Hunn, a witness originally subpenaed by the State.

Reeves, on the night of the murder, was at work as a train caller for the Missouri Pacific at its station at Vandeventer and Chouteau avenues. He testified that he walked past Kriegshauser's undertaking establishment, 4102 Manchester avenue, about 1 o'clock in the morning, and, when in front of that place, he was seized by a stranger who got behind him and held Reeves in front of him as he crossed the street.

Reeves says he at first thought the man was drunk or crazy, but that on asking him what he was doing, this man (whom he afterwards learned was Guy) said:

"There's a policeman across the street and he's threatened to kill me."

Saw Revolver Holster.

Reeves says he looked across and he saw the gleam of a policeman's star and as Guy shoved him closer he saw Policeman Humphrey sitting on the curbstone with his revolver holster pulled around in front of his body.

Reeves related that Guy, still hiding behind him, said to the policeman:

"I understand you threatened to kill me. I don't see why you want to kill me. I haven't even a toothpick on me."

"I'm going to lock you up, anyway," Reeves said Humphrey replied. Reeves said Humphrey told him (Reeves) to halt, too, but that he refused, as he had business to attend to.

Reeves testified that when he had gone less than a block he heard shots, and, running back, found that Guy had been shot.

Attorney Orrick Bishop, for the defense, called Hunn. He testified that he and Guy slept together in the undertaking rooms and that when Guy came in that night about 1 o'clock the witness told him to remain, but Guy went out again. On cross-examination Hunn said he helped carry Guy in after he was shot and found him unarmed.

Testify as to Character.

Henry J. Kinsella of Kirkwood and Policeman James C. Rice were introduced as character witnesses by the defense. Kinsella said he knew Humphrey when he was a conductor, and that he heard other railroad employes speak well of him.

He admitted he did not know Humphrey's associates. Rice testified that Humphrey's reputation for sobriety and peaceful conduct was good.

Attorney Gillespie, for the State, tangled Rice in cross-examination. Rice admitted that he had never inquired into Humphrey's reputation until after the time he shot Guy, and that then he had learned it from two other policemen.

Mrs. Humphrey, at the trial, sat behind her husband in the rst bench beyond the railer inclosure.

She was a bride of only a few weeks when her husband shot Daniel Guy and that tragedy almost broke her heart. Her's has been a bitter honeymoon and her anxiety as to how it will end is plain in her face and manner.

Throughout the long session of court the strained look upon her face and the drawn mouth relaxed only when her husband turned to loo kat her.

Widow Sits Opposite.

Upon another bench, across the aisle to the left of Mrs. Humphrey, sat Mrs. Daniel Guy, widow of the slain man, and her two little girls, 6 and 8 years old respectively. The widow wore black. Her face was partly obscured by a veil. She, too, listened to every word and when the jury was shown the blood-stained clothing worn by her husband when he died, and when the doctors described the wounds that caused death, she put a handkerchief to her eyes.

While the trial was going on the two women so vitally interested in the outcome, did not look at each other at the same time. But at adjournment, as they started out, they met face to face in the aisle. Both stood there looking intently at each other for quite awhile. There was a look, much like pity and sorrow, in the face of the young wife as she tried to see through the mourning veil into the face of the woman made a widow by her husband's act.

Once she made a move as if she would speak. But there was nothing but sternness in the widow's face and the two women turned and went their different ways.

EGYPTIAN STUDENT FINED $50 FOR MASHING AND ONE GIRL ACCUSER

CLARA HAGEMAN

FOUAD ALFI.

Fouad Alfi Released on Bond After Making $53 Deposit for Appeal.

FOUAD ALFI, a student at Washington University, who says he is a son of the Mayor of Kalyoub, Egypt, has deposited $53 with the Dayton Street Police Court, which gives him the right for 10 days to appeal from the fine of $50 imposed on him Thursday, on a charge of insulting made by Miss Clara Hageman, 19 years old. He was released at 4 p. m. Thursday, on an appeal bond.

Alfi spent Thursday night in a cell at the Central District because of the absence of Marshal Charles Weinbrenner from the courtroom after the session was over. Alfi was Weinbrenner's prisoner.

Marshal Away at Time.

The Marshal was away when Alfi's bond was signed by Frank W. Klocke, a druggist at Twenty-fourth street and Cass avenue. During that time Alfi and the other prisoners were removed to the Central District.

The evidence of mashing offered by Miss Hagemann of 5638 Roosevelt place and Miss Estelle Mothaus of 765 Bayard avenue at the trial was that Alfi followed them from West End Heights to Delmar boulevard and Bayard avenue last Wednesday evening. The young women testified that there Alfi tried to hug and kiss Miss Hagemann. When they screamed Benjamin R. Campbell, Health Department inspector, held Alfi until he was arrested.

DR. BROKAW THE ELDER DIES OF HEART DISEASE

Practiced Medicine Here Nearly 50 Years, Survived Two Sons.

Dr. F. V. L. Brokaw, who practiced medicine in St. Louis for nearly a half century, died at the residence of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Julia Brokaw, 4482 Washington boulevard, Friday from heart disease.

Dr. Brokaw survived two of his sons who were physicians. The elder of them, the late Augustus V. L. Brokaw, was very prominent in local medical circles and was the surgeon for the United Railways Co. He established a large private hospital adjoining his residence at 4482 Washington boulevard, where he died less than a year ago.

Another son, Dr. William Brokaw, died about seven years ago, soon after beginning the practice of his profession. It was at the residence of Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw's widow that Dr. F. V. L. Brokaw died.

Dr. Brokaw is survived by two daughters, Miss Marion Brokaw and Mrs. James H. Lowell, and four sons—Frederick H., Paul D., Linn R. and Robert Brokaw.

The funeral will be held Sunday from the Washington and Compton Avenue Presbyterian Church, of which Dr. Brokaw was a member for many years. Until a few years ago he lived at Compton and Lucas avenues.

BIG FACTS OF THE SHOEMAKERS' STRIKE.

The strike of the 30,000 shoe workers in St. Louis was caused by the refusal of the manufacturers to grant the demands of the 1500 union shoe cutters for a nine-hour day and a minimum wage scale of $18 a week.

The others presented no demands or grievances.

The 18 factories affected have a capacity for manufacturing approximately 500,000 pairs of shoes a week. The strike means a loss in wages of from $75,000 to $100,000 a day.

The strikers estimate the number of men out as follows: Hamilton Brown, 6000; Brown Shoe Co., 4000; Peters Shoe Co., 3500; Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., 4000, and smaller numbers from the other factories.

The Shoe Manufacturers' Association has called a meeting at 3 p. m. at the Mercantile Club to discuss the strike.

ENTRY 23 IN AUTO RACE SATURDAY HAS SKIDDOOED

L. T. Highleyman Expected Something Unusual and It Came.

When the 35 cars entered in the automobile endurance race in St. Louis County line up for the start Saturday afternoon entry No. 23 will be missing. It has been skiddooed already.

"Twenty-three" was a big 50-horsepower touring car belonging to L. T. Highleyman. When he heard the number which had been assigned to him the owner shook his head and said: "Something unexpected is going to happen. Maybe I'll win the race or get my neck broken or something."

Wednesday night he loaned his car to Dr. W. W. Gardiner, a dentist. With three friends Dr. Gardiner was skimming along the North and South road, near the Country Club, when there was a flash and the car burst into flames.

The occupants jumped and were not hurt, but the car a few minutes later was a pile of ashes and twisted pipes.

As predicted "something" had happened and entry 23 was out of business.

SHOE BOSSES PLAN TO FIGHT 30,000 STRIKERS

Manufacturers Controlling 18 Factories Affected Call a Meeting.

SOME LOCKED OUT

In Three Shops Work Was Stopped to Protect Loyal Employes.

Eighteen shoe factories in St. Louis, employing nearly 30,000 workmen and manufacturing approximately 500,000 pairs of shoes a week, are idle as the result of a general strike of the shoe workers at 8 a. m. Friday.

The Independent Boot and Shoe Workers' Union held a secret meeting Friday at Lightstone Hall, at which official indorsement was given to the strike, which was ordered under the emergency clause.

The four factories of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co., four factories of the Brown Shoe Co., four factories of the Peters Shoe Co., three factories of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Co., and the factories of the Courtney Shoe Co., the Giesecke-D'Oench-Hayes Shoe Co., and the Dittman Shoe Co., are all affected.

To forestall the strikers and protect their loyal employes the three factories of the Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. at Twenty-first and Locust and Olive streets were shut down indefinitely at 7:45 a. m. In all of the other factories the employes obeyed the general strike order and quit their tasks promptly at 8 a. m. The general strike order was issued Thursday night at meetings of the different crafts in halls at Eleventh street and Franklin avenue.

A meeting of the Shoe Manufacturers' Association has been called by President I. H. Sawyer for 3 p. m. at the Mercantile Club. The strike will be considered by the manufacturers.

Unreasonable, They Say.

The officials of all the affected companies, and the superintendents of their factories, have been requested to attend the meeting. President Sawyer stated Friday that the manufacturers considered the demands of the shoe cutters' union, which were rejected, as unreasonable.

The cutters struck Thursday, and the general strike was called in sympathy for them.

The lasters, edge makers, bottomers, stock fitters, trimmers and stitchers who have walked out in sympathy with the cutters are only partially organized. They are rapidly joining the union. They have formulated no bill of grievances against the companies, but probably will make demands as a consideration for returning to work.

All in Good Humor.

At 8 a. m. the shoe workers in all except the Hamilton-Brown factories left their tasks and made a rush for the exits. They went out shouting and singing, and hastened to the headquarters on Franklin avenue, where they were massed in half a dozen halls. There was very little disorder, as policemen were stationed at all the factories to suppress riots.

The union cutters struck Thursday when the companies refused their demands for a nine-hour day, instead of 10, a minimum wage scale of $18 a week for journeymen cutters, ½-cent per pair increase in piece work shops, $1.50 a week increase for lining and trimming cutters, and equivalent increase for piece workers, time and a half for overtime, and one apprentice for each 10 journeymen cutters.

The workmen who walked out Friday are in sympathy with the cutters, and a few of them belong to the union, which was started last April. The only manufacturers in St. Louis not affected by the strike are Friedman-Shelby Shoe Co., which has partially met the demands of the union; the Wertheimer-Swarts Shoe Co., the Johansen Shoe Co., the John Meyers Shoe Co., and the Union factory of the Hamilton Brown Shoe Co. These factories, with the exception of Friedman-Shelby, are unionized by the Boot and Shoe Workers' International Union, an organization with headquarters in Boston.

JOHN D. WORTH 109 MILLIONS IN OIL TRUST STOCK

Owns 247,692 Shares, Each Quoted at $440, Tilford Testifies.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—John D. Rockefeller now owns 247,692 shares of the 972,500 shares of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, according to the testimony of W. H. Tilford, treasurer of that company, given in the Federal action at the hearing before Judge Franklin Ferris of St. Louis in this city today.

As Standard Oil stock was last quoted at $440, Mr. Rockefeller's holdings are worth nearly $109,000,000. The holdings of William Rockefeller were stated by Mr. Tilford to be 11,700 shares and those of H. H. Rogers 16,020 shares.

Mr. Tilford, treasurer of the Standard company, was asked on resumption of the hearing today if the dividend of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey in 1899 was $14,304,188 or $32,008,541.

"I think the dividend was $14,304,188," replied Mr. Tilford.

"And the reason why the dividends were so small was that the dividends in some of the subsidiary companies were paid to individuals instead of to the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey?"

"Yes, I think so," said Mr. Tilford.

Mr. Tilford said that to the present date 972,492 shares of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey had been exchanged for trust certificates. He said there still remains outstanding stock of the subsidiary companies which has not been exchanged for the remaining eight shares of the Standard Oil Co.

Mr. Tilford did not know if it was a fact that in 1888 or 1889 the Manhattan Oil Co. of Ohio sold its tank cars to the Union Tank Line, a subsidiary company of the Standard company, nor could he say if the Ohio Oil Co., another Standard subsidiary, purchased the oil producing wells of the Manhattan company.

"Now, did not the Solar Refining Co., another subsidiary company of the Standard, purchase at that time the refinery of the Manhattan Oil Co.?" asked Mr. Kellogg.

Mr. Tilford again replied:

"I do not know."

Mr. Tilford was questioned regarding the records showing the amounts of shares of the subsidiary companies held in exchange for the trustees' certificates. The witness said he did not have the record.

BOY AND DOG STOP FEAST, MOTHER AND HOST FINED

Business on South Broadway Block Suspended While Court Tries Case.

Business in the 1900 block on South Broadway was practically paralyzed Friday morning when a dozen merchants, their wives and families went up to the City Hall Police Court to appear as witnesses in a neighborhood row. Justice of the Peace O'Hallaron, sitting for Judge Tracy, alarmed by the stream of witnesses pouring through the enclosure gate, announced that only three would be heard on each side.

Out of the mass of evidence the Court finally learned that Abraham Gainsberg, a merchant at 1902 South Broadway, had given a wedding feast, that Louis Gardner, a boy, had tied a dog to the door and broken up the feast by causing the animal to howl, and that Grinsberg had gone to the home of the boy's mother, Mrs. Bessie Gardner, 1914 South Broadway, and stated his opinion of the act.

"Ten dollars for each, Grinsberg and Mrs. Gardner," said the Court.

AUTUMN Apparel for Misses and Girls: Mothers who like to dress their daughters in truly juvenile, yet fashionably cut and thoroughly well-made clothes, will find this department a veritable mine of suggestions—each one good. There are also styles that are almost, if not quite, counterparts of those intended for their elders. Some few features that will be of interest tomorrow:

Misses' Coat Suits

Of these we are showing many different models in striped broadcloth, herringbone cheviots, wide Wale serges and imported suitings. We have both plain tailored effects and fancy braided Coats, either medium, long or short. Plaited flare skirt, with from one to four folds at bottom. The price range is $30.00 to $47.00

Misses' Fall Reefers

Distinctly new Reefers for Fall wear, made of serge, cheviot, Scotch mixtures and tweeds; all the best colors in checks and mixtures, and all ages from 4 to 14 years. Prices range from $7.00 to $17.50

Misses' Tailored Suits

The newest of the Fall Suit styles are being shown. One is 27-inch cutaway, with semi-fitted coat, shawl collar of velvet, sleeves have turn-back cuffs and tailor buttons. Skirt is plaited, 4-inch fold at bottom. Materials are suitings in gray, brown and black and white stripe effects. Ages 14 to 18 years. Price, $17.50

Misses' Fall Suits

The new models for misses of 14 to 18 years are exceptionally attractive. Materials are mostly mixtures and stripe effects in brown, green and navy. One style is medium-length box coat, tailored collar of broadcloth and turn-back cuffs. Skirt is in kilted style, with three-inch fold. Price, $25.00

Misses' Broadcloth Suits

The late arrivals of these stylish Suits are of plain and striped effect broadcloths. Coats are 29 and 36-inch lengths; made double-breasted and semi-fitted; Skinner lining; inlaid velvet collar, tailor buttons. Skirt has flare with folds. Colors are brown, wine and navy. Youths' and Boys' Autumn Clothing

DIFFERENT Clothing, in this—that it is made from fabrics specially selected, and that each suit or garment is made to our own carefully studied specifications. Thus the clothes we sell are built, trimmed and lined, one might say, entirely under our own eyes.

Such a course produces the individuality that attaches to all the Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Clothing for Boys and Young Men.

One point we never lose sight of is: The boy of today is the young gentleman of tomorrow.

Youths' Fall Suits—Ages 16 to 20 Years

The Coats are 31 inches long—somewhat shorter than last season—and have natural unpadded broad shoulders and close-fitting collar. The backs have slight curves and are inclined to the box effect. The vests have three or four buttons and flap pockets—some are bound. The trousers are small at waist—large in hips and have welt seams on sides. The very newest Tan, Brown and Olive effects, also plain Blue or Black in fine all-wool Cheviots, Cassimeres and Worsteds. Prices— $18.00, $20.00, $22.00 and $25.00

RUSSIANS HAVE TO YIELD PLACE TO LONGWORTHS

Pullman Conductor Compels Foreigners to Give Up Drawingroom.

MAKE ANGRY PROTEST

President's Daughter and Husband on Flying Trip to Cincinnati.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., Sept. 20.—Considerable excitement was caused on a Pullman car late yesterday when two wealthy Russians were compelled to vacate the drawing room for Congressman and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, who boarded a train at Grand Canon for Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Longworth have just returned from Honolulu, and are hurrying to Cincinnati in order that Mr. Longworth may talk over the proposition of the Republican party to run him for Mayor of his home city. They had spent the day at Grand Canon with Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Joy of St. Louis.

The sleeping car agent informed them that there was but one drawing room on the Pullman and that this was occupied by two Russians. The President's daughter and her husband wished the drawing room that they might avoid attention of other passengers on the trip.

They showed tickets entitling them to those accommodations, but Mr. Longworth's reservation for the same drawing room was shown to have been made two days prior to the Russians'. When told that the train would not proceed until they vacated the drawing room, the foreigners conversed between themselves and then suddenly announced they would withdraw in Mrs. Longworth's favor. They were met on their entry into the body of the car by catcalls and hisses from all sides.

The train was delayed because of the controversy for several minutes.

DONNELL ASKS INJUNCTION AGAINST THE FRAUD ORDER

Concern Asserts That Objectionable Scheme Has Been Abandoned.

Application for an injunction to restrain Postmaster Wyman from enforcing the fraud order against the Donnell Manufacturing Co. of 612 South Sixth street, was made to Judge Dyer of the United States Circuit Court Friday. Judge Dyer issued a temporary order directing the Postmaster to appear in court next Tuesday and show cause why an injunction shall not be issued.

The temporary order has the effect of preventing the Postmaster from stamping the work "Fraudulent" on letters addressed to the company and returning them to the writers until after the hearing.

The application for the injunction states that fraud orders issued by the Postmaster-General are subject to court review, and that the Donnell Manufacturing Co. has abandoned the scheme which resulted in the issuance of the order. Courts have held heretofore that fraud orders issued by the Postmaster-General are not subject to judicial review, and that they are final and binding.

ADOLPHUS BUSCH'S HEALTH MUCH IMPROVED, SON SAYS

Rich Brewer Will Remain on His German Estate Until October.

Adolphus Busch is almost entirely restored to health, according to August A. Busch, who is in New York, and who will start for St. Louis Saturday. The son reached New York on the Deutschland Thursday, press dispatches say.

Adolphus Busch will remain until the latter part of October on his estate at Langenschwalbach, near Wiesbaden. Dr. Robert Luedeking, his physician, returned to the United States with August Busch. Mrs. Magnus and Mrs. Faust, daughters of the rich brewer, will return to St. Louis when he does.

Other St. Louisans who arrived on the Deutschland were: M. J. Mulvihill, deposed chairman of the Democratic City Central Committee; P. J. Conroy, piano man; Col. George S. McGrew and former Councilman John Vogel.

If there be a man, woman or child who has trouble with digestion, let him or her adopt the following menu and depend upon relief.

A little fruit.

Saucer of Grape-Nuts with cream.

A soft boiled egg.

Slice of hard, crisp toast.

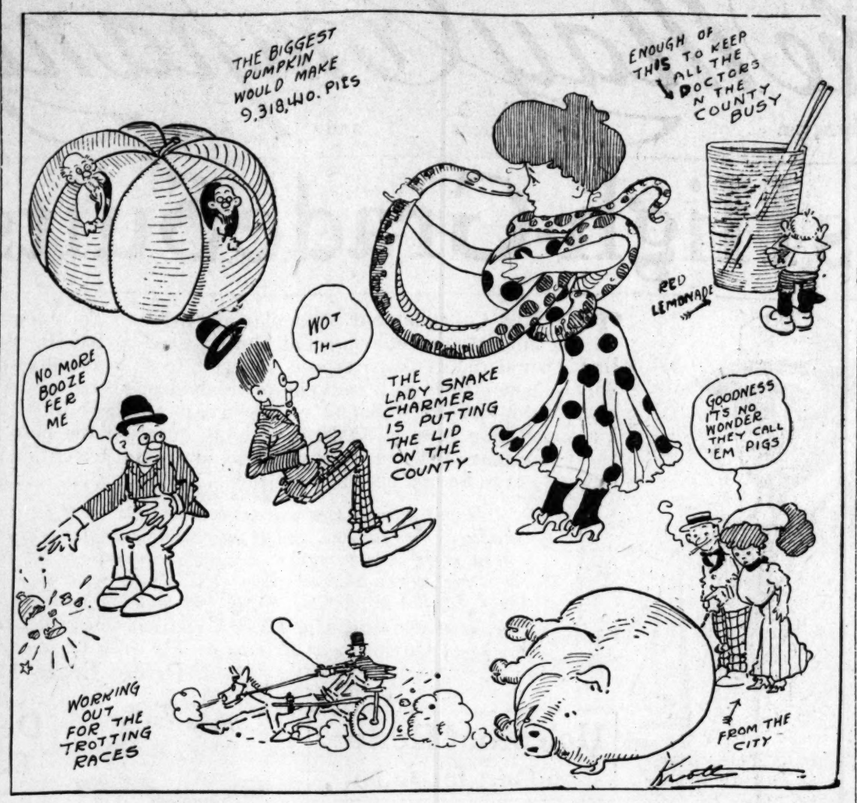

Cup of Postum Food Coffee (be sure to boil it 15 minutes and it's delicious).

Let these articles constitute the breakfast, a luncheon or supper, and nothing more.

In a few days the old world will turn around your way, and life seem worth living. Try it. "There's a reason."

NOTHING BUT FUN IN BIG BUNCHES DAY AND NIGHT AT ST. LOUIS COUNTY FAIR

ALL ABOARD FOR ST. LOUIS COUNTY FAIR AT CREVE COEUR

They Have Pumpkins That Are Pumpkins and Potatos So Big That One Suffices for Two Meals—There Is Racing, Too.

Well! Well! Well!

See what's here!

The greatest aggregation of pumpkins in the State of Missouri.

Thursday St. Louis County put on its good clothes, hitched the roan team to the carryall, loaded in the children and three baskets of fried chicken, the big, fat, yellow-legged kind, and lashions of pickles and cake and hied away to little Creve Coeur Lake, on the banks of which the eighth annual St. Louis County Fair started on its four days' career of glamorous joy.

If there is any county in the State of Missouri that can out-pumpkin St. Louis County, it has only to show its head when the fair at Creve Coeur will make it hang in shame.

Only One Real Fair.

Make no mistake. There is only one real, blown-in-the-bottle fair here or hereabouts this fall, and St. Louis County is giving it.

There are pumpkins and beets so big that it makes one tired simply to think of lifting them from their place in the good Mother Earth that bore them into the wagon that is to carry them to the big rid barn.

There are ears of corn that stagger belief; potatoes so large that a housewife would have to divide one between several meals; hogs so fat that the product from one would make the sides of the pork barrel bulge; and fruits, jellies and preserves and everything good that can be, and is, produced on the fat farms of St. Louis County.

When the fair opened Thursday morning the long sheds were full of blooded cattle and horses, and the barns behind the half-mile track held trotting horses that can turn off a mile in jig time. There is going to be some whaling good races out there this week.

The association has offered liberal prizes in everything from the most shapely sweet potato to the handsomest threshing machine, and the finest work of home-grown art to the prettiest girl—and there will be plenty of competitors in the latter class.

Plenty of Amusement.

As for amusement—well, that's where the St. Louis County Fair is going to shine with a luster that will make the observation tower on the bluff at Creve Coeur look like a penny taper.

H. E. Rice of the Globe Theater in St. Louis is going to present vaudeville and moving pictures and perhaps that won't loosen up the eyeballs of the farmers.

There'll be other enterprises of the same sort, minstrels and everything from pitch and toss to manslaughter in the way of moving pictures, to say nothing of the charming snake charmer who can charm young farmers as well as ophidians.

There are ballyhoos out there that have so many comical sayings that they hold a crowd laughing until they wind up with: "And now, good friends, the price of admiss'n is only 10 cents, one dime, the tenth of a dollar." Then the smile comes off, and they move away to the next ballyhoo. Looking at the pretty country girls and listening to the ballyhoo, when you are not gazing pensively into the eyes of a prize fat hog or letting your mouth water over the ruby jellies, is a heap of fun.

Whang! Bang! Boom-bah. Umpah-pah-pah-pah! Zimity-zim-zim.

Hear the band play. See the flags snap in the wind off the lake. Smell the dust from the track as the trotters fly past. Look at that red-cheeked girl in the pink dress—ain't she a queen?

If you want to see a regular, out and out country fair, journey out to Creve Coeur.

FINDS TURTLE WITH HIS AND GRANDDAD'S INITIALS

First Inscription Was Made in 1846, and the Second in 1877.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Wilber Collard and John Hennion, two farmers of Pinebrook, N. J., were sitting on a rail fence resting, after picking peaches, when a turtle crawled from behind a stone and passed before them.

"'Member, John, that turtle we found jest 'bout hyar one day when we were boys?" asked Wilbur.

"Sure," was the reply, "an' you picked up the derned critter and cut your initials jest under those of yer granddad that we found on its shell."

"That must a been all uv 30 years ago," responded Wilbur. "Maybe that feller's got somebody's name onter it; let's see."

Collard picked up the tortoise and exclaimed:

"By gum, that's the same turtle."

Plainly cut on the shell were the initials "J. W. H., 1846," and beneath, "W. C., 1877." The first inscription was made by Joseph W. Hennion, grandfather of the man who picked up the tortoise.

The reptile will be carefully cared for by Collard.

COMIC CARDS FOR BRIDEGROOM

Friends Play Prank on John Richard Schwarz.

John Richard Schwarz, a title examiner in the office of Recorder Joy, was the recipient Thursday of a unique postal card signed by 70 friends and fellow-workers, congratulating him on his sudden marriage.

The card is about 14x18 inches, and has pasted on it three comic postal cards on matrimonial subjects. The signatures are written around the cards.

Schwarz surprised his friends when he was married Wednesday to Miss Marie Langelle, who boarded at the same place he did, 2628 McNair avenue. They are spending their honeymoon with relatives of the groom in St. Louis County [illegible]

CONSTANTINE, ON STAND, SAYS HE IS NOT GUILTY

Italian Accused of Woman's Murder Declares She Cut Her Own Throat.

HIS RAZOR WAS USED

He Was Afraid to Tell, He Asserts, Lest His Story Would Be Discredited.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Frank J. Constantine, on trial for the murder of Mrs. Louise Gentry, took the stand in his own defense today. He showed absolute composure and testified without hesitation. He said that when he engaged a room in the Gentry home, he told Mrs. Gentry that his father was a wealthy real estate man.

"Did you ever tell them you were of royal blood?"

"I did. I am a descendant from Italian royalty."

Constantine declared he had heard Mr. and Mrs. Gentry quarreling many times.

On the day of the tragedy he told Mrs. Gentry he was about to leave the city and she persistently asked him to take her with him. He positively refused. She then, according to his story, picked up the razor with which he had been shaving and cut her own throat.

He declared that he carried her down to the door of Dr. Doherty's office, pounded on the door and then left her standing there while he ran for another doctor. He said he noticed while hunting for this second doctor that there was blood on the sleeve of his coat and he thought that if he returned he would be accused of the murder and would not receive justice in the courts because he was a stranger in the city.

He had always since wanted to give himself up, he said, but had been dissuaded by the members of his family.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD ON BED; NEGRO SOUGHT

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

CHICAGO, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Lillian Grant White, a kindergarten teacher in the public schools, was found dead in bed today at her home, 5520 Morrison avenue, her neck broken by a piece of linen cloth twisted about her throat.

Mrs. Grant's emptied purse was found later in the day in front of the office of a physician 50 feet distant. The police suspect a colored chore man of the neighborhood.

Mrs. Grant was intending to move and had engaged two men to carry her furniture. One of them went to the room yesterday morning, and seeing the body lying across the bed, withdrew. Today he went again, and, finding the body in the same position, notified the police.

TIMES OF PAIN

While no woman is entirely free from intense suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. Disorders and pain are positive evidence that something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to serious derangement of the feminine organism.

Thousands of women have found relief from all painful suffering by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, as it is the most thorough female remedy known to medical science.

It cures the condition which causes so much discomfort and robs that period of its terrors. Women who are troubled with painful functions should take immediate action to ward off the serious consequences and be restored to health and strength by taking

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Miss Adelaide Nichols of 324 West 22d Street, New York City, writes: Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—"If women who suffer would only rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound their troubles would be quickly alleviated. I feel greatly indebted for the relief and health which has been brought to me by your inestimable remedy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cures Female Complaints such as Hot Flashes and Organic Diseases, Headache, General Debility, Indigestion, and invigorates the whole feminine system. For the derangements of the Kidneys of either sex Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

Women suffering from any form of female ailments are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised.

Prove It Yourself! Come and See!

The most remarkable and convincing proof of the success of the famous Woodbury Method of treating facial defects will be on exhibition at the Woodbury Offices daily this week. Call at any time between 10 A. M. and 4 P. M., and you may see and talk with a lady who has had lines and wrinkles removed from one-half of the face, leaving the other side to show the flabby, wrinkled skin that formerly covered the entire face. It is a living "before and after" picture.

Our treatment removes Small Pox Pittings, Acne Pittings, Scars of every description and many forms of Birthmarks, without leaving a trace. The skin is left with a clear and smooth freshness of youth.

For 37 years this Institute has treated successfully every kind of facial disfigurements. We have perfected the art of making the human face attractive. There is no profession in which experience counts for more, as the face is the most delicate and easily marred part of the human body.

This Office is open every day, except Sunday, from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M.

UNCLE SAM'S GIFT A LEMON, SAY RESERVES

Huntress, Disabled in Gulf Storm, Towed Ashore to Be Caulked Up.

IS NOT RIVERWORTHY

Crew Fear Rattletrap Engines Will Not Take Her Upstream.

When the log of the good ship Huntress, manned by the Missouri Naval Reserves, is completed, it will be full of thrilling and hair-raising entries, the last of which may be:

"Eight bells—Foot of Market street sighted on the port bow. UNCLE SAM HANDED US A LEMON."

No crew of fair weather sailors and landlubbers ever had a more exciting time trying to sail a fresh water ship through choppy seas than have the Missouri Naval Reserves of St. Louis, on their initial cruise from the Pensacola Naval Yard in the converted pleasure yacht which was given them by the Government.

After two days' battle with stormy winds and seasickness, the skipper of the Huntress, Capt. W. F. Roberts, was called to St. Louis on business, arriving here Thursday night.

The remainder of the officers and crew are sticking to the ship, but they are having a hard time doing it, according to press dispatches.

Tale of Pascagoula Bay.

'Twas down in Pascagoula Bay that Lieut. Schwartz and the 40 men before the mast, tossed by waves and swept hither and thither by a gale, thought that their generous Uncle Sam had given them a pass to Davy Jones' locker.

After having had to put back to port twice because of faulty engines, the little ship, bobbing along on the water like a fasherman's cork, entered the bay, just off the coast of Mississippi, Wednesday night.

The engines were groaning below. So were half of the seasick crew on deck.

Howling winds tugged and wrenched at the upper works, and the lee scuppers were awash. Floundering through the waves, the Huntress was at the mercy of the storm, the crippled engines working so slowly that there was not sufficient power to manage the steering apparatus.

This was bad enough, but there was real and unforeseen danger ahead. A signal came from the engine room:

"Taking water forward."

To the Pumps, Men!

Lieut. Schwartz, routed from bed, gave the order to man the pumps.

It was a sorry looking, white-faced, seasick pumping crew that went below.

There was not strength enough left in them to keep the big "suckers" going, and the water poured into the engine room faster than they could get it out.

"To the buckets," came the command.

Forming a line, the fresh-water sailors, standing to their knees in bilge, attempted a task much like that of the foolish person who tried to empty the ocean with a clam fork.

Water in the Furnace.

The leak was still there working overtime, and in half an hour the water rose to the furnace doors and put out the fires. Luckily there was not steam enough in the boilers to cause an explosion.

The going was becoming rougher all the time, and just as the engines died with a final gasp the 15 members of the crew who thus far had not succumbed to seasickness threw up their hands and cried in agony:

"We've got it!"

"Heave to," shouted Lieut. Schwartz through his trumpet.

"Aye, aye," said the stricken ones as they hastened to obey the command.

It was all up with the Huntress. She was a derelict on the high seas.

"Man the rockets," was the next command, and the disconsolate sailors stood by to shoot off all the fireworks which they had taken along to celebrate their triumphant landing at the foot of Market street at the end of their cruise.

Schooner to Rescue.

The Fourth of July display brought a schooner alongside and the commander of this vessel, a real salt-water tar, quickly put about and carried the story of the Huntress' distress to the pilot boat in the harbor.

A relief tug found the Huntress standing on her nose in the trough of the sea, with two dinky sails spread to keep her right-side up.

She was towed to port at Scranton, Miss., where she is now in the hands of engineers and caulkers, who are trying to make her ready to resume her trip to St. Louis.

It is feared that with her rattle-trap engines she may not be able to steam up the Mississippi against the current.

The child was taken from the water and carried to the hospital by his brother, Joseph, 14 years old.

SECRETARY WILSON WILL NOT LET DAUGHTER GO ON STAGE

She is Studying in Switzerland and Her Instructor is Enthusiastic.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A letter received here from Lucerne, Switzerland, revived the report that Miss Flora Wilson, the beautiful and accomplished daughter of the Secretary of Agriculture, is studying for a career in grand opera.

According to the story she is taking lessons under De Reszke, who tells her she should let nothing stand in the way of becoming one of the great prima donnas of the musical world.

An intimate friend of Secretary Wilson said last night he had not relented from his position of a year ago that under no circumstances must his daughter think of devoting herself to a professional career.

Letter to President to Be Prize for Contenders.

C. F. Sparks of Alton, who has been chosen by the St. Louis Power Boat Association to make arrangements for the delivery of a letter from Mayor Busse of Chicago to President Roosevelt at St. Louis by relays of fast boats, has suggested that the last lap of the relay be run from Peoria to St. Louis, and that several boats from St. Louis and from Alton race the entire distance.

He suggests that the first boat to arrive at Alton be allowed to continue to St. Louis, and to deliver the document to the President. He says he is confident that his boat, the Kitty Sparks, can outrun any other.

BRIDEGROOM VANISHES AND LEAVES BRIDE IN THEATER

George Dunham Goes Out Between the Acts and Fails to Return.

George Dunham, a bridegroom, is missing from his home on Prospect Hill, just north of Baden, and his grief-stricken bride and friends fear he has met with foul play. The police of St. Louis have been asked to look for him.

Three weeks ago Dunham was married to Miss Anna Helfich, also of Prospect Hill, and with his wife went to live in a little cottage which he had fitted up with his savings. He had worked for four years in the cement works in the neighborhood and was considered a man of model habits.

One week after the marriage Dunham took his wife and her sister to Havlin's Theater. After the first act he excused himself, saying he would return in time for the second act. He has not been seen or heard of since.

34 KILLED, 16 HURT IN TRAIN WRECK IN MEXICO

El Paso Express Collides With Freight Train Near Aguas Calientes.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 20.—In a collision between the southbound El Paso express and a northbound freight on the Mexican Central, at Encarnacion De Dios, a few miles from Aguas Calientes, 34 persons were killed and 19 injured. It was the worst disaster on that road in years.

Telegraph lines were broken as a result of the wreck, and only meager details are obtainable. The dead and injured were taken to Agues Callentes.

The Right Sort of Fall Clothing At the Right Prices

WE are building up a clothing business along lines that are bound to bring this department on a par with the long-established departments.

Every penny expended here buys the fullest measure of quality in cloth, workmanship and style.

No extra charge is made for exclusiveness of style. They cost us nothing to get—we demand that from the makers when we place our orders—and you, in turn, should demand that of us for pretty much the same reason.

The prestige of this institution in the commercial world and our wonderful buying capacity enables us to secure price advantages a great majority of the stores do not enjoy. In this way we are able to offer the greatest measure of clothing value at any given price.

NEILL COMING HERE TO MAKE RAILROAD PEACE

United States Labor Commissioner to Confer Regarding Missouri Pacific Dispute.

ENGINEERS' COMPLAINT

They Object to Wages and Hours and Running of Engines.

Charles S. Neill, United States Commissioner of Labor at Washington, will arrive in St. Louis Friday night to hold a conference with the Missouri Pacific Railway management and its engineers relative to differences involving a schedule of hours and wages. Chief Stone of the Brotherhood of Engineers will also be present at the meeting.

Recently a committee of engineers representing the Missouri Pacific and other Western lines and railroad officials met at Chicago to dispose of the main questions in dispute. Many matters of minor importance were left unfinished at that conference.

Among other questions which the Missouri Pacific engineers were unable to settle with their employes was that relating to the running of engines to the roundhouse at the end of a trip. Differences also arose between the firemen and engineers of the system, but the management refused to interfere in this controversy.

It was stated at the office of General Manager Sullivan of the Missouri Pacific Friday that an adjustment of the pending differences was certain to result with Labor Commissioner Neill acting as mediator.

TO END TELEGRAPHERS' STRIKE BY ARBITRATION

Commissioner Neill Given Full Power to Act for Operators in Arrangement.

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A settlement of the strike of telegraphers is now possible by arbitration. A termination of the struggle is being arranged by Commissioner of Labor Neill, acting as the representative of President Roosevelt. Ten days from now is the time limit fixed for the cessation of hostilities. The strike will then be declared off and the operators now out taken back to work by the companies. This is a synopsis of the agreement expected to be made within the next few days.

It is the result of a number of conferences held yesterday between Commissioner Neill and a committee of operators from New York, who represented the strikers. The committee comprised Thomas L. Manan, president of the Union Telegraphers' Aid Society, and a member of the local Executive Committee, and Arthur G. Douglas, chairman of the Postal chapel of New York City.

Neill Has Full Power.

It was made clear here that Commissioner Neill has full authority to act for the telegraph companies in arranging a basis for a settlement and also is empowered to represent President Roosevelt. It is known that the companies are ready for arbitration. Mahan and Douglas brought with them the authority given by a vote of the operators in New York for the submission of all questions to arbitration.

The plan proposed by Commissioner Neill, which is acceptable to the operators, is for the two telegraph companies to select three arbitrators and the strikers three. If these six are unable to agree on the seventh member he will be named by the President or someone designated by him.

The seventh member will undoubtedly be Commissioner Neill. Immediately upon the naming of the arbitrators the strike will be declared at an end and the operators will resume work pending an adjustment.

Conclusions to Be Final.

It will be agreed that the conclusions reached by the board shall be accepted as final. Some differences have arisen between President Small and members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union. The arbitrators announced by Mr. Small will not be accepted by his followers.

Soon after the strike began Mr. Small authorized a statement that when arbitration was reached Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Mr. O'Keefe would be the representatives of the operators. Neither of these men is acceptable to those now active in arranging a settlement, and it is probable neither of them will serve. It is intended to choose men who have no connection with the telegraphic service or labor unions.

The fact became apparent today that a wide breach exists between President Small and members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union. It is not now intended that Mr. Small shall have a dominating voice in adjusting the prevailing trouble. He must take a back seat. The operators themselves will determine who shall represent them. The vote of the operators agreeing to arbitration, which was placed in the hands of Commissioner Neill, is above the constitutional requirement.

TYGARD BROUGHT HERE TO BE IDENTIFIED FOR TRIAL

Banker Taken From Insane Asylum Must Face a Jury.

Capt. Flavius J. Tygard, under indictment on 11 counts in Kansas City on a charge of misappropriating the funds of the Bates County National Bank at Butler, Mo., was brought to St. Louis Friday from the State Asylum for the Insane at Farmington. Under a ruling by Federal Judge Dyer he must stand trial on the misappropriation charge.

Deputy United States Marshal Wild was sent to Farmington to get Capt. Tygard, and bring him to St. Louis for the formality of identification. Immediately after this is done before United States Commissioner Morsey, Capt. Tygard will be taken to Kansas City.

Butcher Attacked With Knife.

Earl Hanna, a butcher at 2019 Franklin avenue, reported to the police Friday that he was attacked by a supposed robber while walking east on Franklin avenue, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second streets, at 1 o'clock Friday morning. He says he was stabbed in the neck and head. His injuries are not serious.

ASKED WORKHOUSE SENTENCE AND JUDGE GRANTED REQUEST

Man Who Used Secret Society Emblem to Defraud Blames Whisky for Downfall.

Richard E. Lee, who was arrested on a charge of wearing an emblem of a secret society and attempting to obtain money on the strength of alleged membership, from William Kenner, at the Custom House, appeared before Judge Wilson Taylor Friday morning and pleaded guilty to the charge.

Lee recited his life-history, telling that he had once held responsible positions, and had had a nice family.

"I must have found that Masonic emblem," Lee told the Judge. "For nine months I have been drunk. I am guilty of the charge of using the button to attempt to get money, and I ought to be punished. Please send me to the Workhouse."

Judge Taylor accommodated Lee by giving him 30 days and a fine of $5, which is equivalent to an 85-day sentence.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Joseph Chambers and her daughters, Misses Alicia and Sarah Chambers, returned home from their year's European traveling.

They are now at the Chambers farm near Ferguson, pending their return to town, when they will occupy their Berlin avenue house. This Mr. and Mrs. George Tower and their family have had for the past six months. They expect to come in about Oct. 23.

The marriage of Miss Alicia Chambers to Capt. Claude Chichester, late of the Eleventh Oxfordshire Light Infantry, but now retired from the English service, is announced for November 19 and will be one of the notable autumn weddings, in point of size and fashion.

A church ceremony will be followed by a large house reception. Miss Chambers has chosen her bridemaids, who are all old and intimate friends. Her sister, Miss Sarah, will be maid of honor, while the Misses Jane and Maria Taylor and Miss Margaret Lee will serve.

Capt. Chichester will be accompanied to St. Louis by his brother, Mr. Basil Chichester, who will assist as best man.

The ushers are to be St. Louis friends of the bride. Capt. Chichester will take his bride to live in England, where he owns a handsome home in London and another in the country.

This wedding will be preceded by much entertaining as soon as friends return to the city.

Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Saturday evening Mr. and Mrs. E. Osterkamp of the South Side celebrated their twenty-fifth anniversary, at which about one hundred guests were entertained. Mrs. Fischer and Misses Emma and Helen Sandvoss succeeded in decorating the dining room very elaborate in silver gray with ferns and white carnations.

Dancing was indulged in until a late hour, at which time a grand march took place, led by Mr. and Mrs. Osterkamp and their groomsman and bridemaid, Mr. R. Osterkamp and wife, who officiated at their wedding 25 years ago.

During the evening the music was furnished by the Berchey Brothers' Orchestra. Wr. Walter Kipping entertained the party with several vocal selections in the course of the evening. Dainty refreshments were served in the upper rooms of the hall, the tables being decorated with carnations and ferns. Mr. Otto F. Leffler delivered a short address setting forth the significance of birthdays and the sentiments which they create. The party was well attended and will long be remembered by those who were present.

Never Austere

The term muck-raker gets thrown at us, but that's not us; we aim to be cheerful people. A child could sit in our lap and eat ice cream when we had our best clothes on—chocolate ice cream at that.

Muck-raking is only a by-product; here's a crowd of us, calling ourselves the United States, spending say $100,000,000 a day, and 20% of it may be going to manufacture misery for humans: Bribery, indigestion, injustice, child labor, and general cussedness.

It's too much money—we can't afford it

When our economical streak is on, we'd like to see some of it saved to spend for happiness. Just as if we saw a man cleaning off a horse with sizzling boiling oil, instead of water, we'd say: "Here, that oil cost money—besides, you're spoiling the horse."

If you'll take a dip into the OCTOBER EVERYBODY'S MAGAZINE, you'll soon see that we don't wear blue glasses. You're liable to bump over several mighty interesting things and a laugh or two that will do you good. Two things you mustn't miss: OWEN WISTER'S "Keystone Crime," and Parker H. Fillmore's lovely little tale of Margery's success when she started out to disgrace the family.

OUR NATIONAL DANGER

Time to Cry a Halt Before a Panic Comes.

The business spirit is crushing out the sweeter element of home life. We are in danger of a great commercial decline, because men, as a whole, think only of getting wealth.

There are thousands, both men and women, who do not take time to eat properly. They rush through life, and as a result we have an age of indigestion, nervousness, irritability, sleepless nights, and morose disposition. There is not much difference between downright suicide and the way some people disregard unmistakable signs of stomach trouble.

With the great advance to the knowledge of digestion and nutrition, resulting in the discovery of Mi-o-na tablets, there is no longer any excuse for one to have ill-health from stomach weakness.

Mi-o-na strengthens the walls of the stomach, stimulates secretion of the digestive juices, regulates the liver and restores muscular contraction to the intestines and bowels, so no laxative is needed.

Sick headaches, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, yellow skin, irritability, coated tongue and melancholy are a few of the many distressing results of indigestion. Mi-o-na never fails to dispel all this trouble. It is a scientific preparation guaranteed under the Pure Food Law by No. 1418.

Mi-o-na is sold by druggists everywhere for 50 cents, and we positively guarantee to refund your money should you purchase a box and be dissatisfied with results. Write for free sample, addressing Booth's Mi-o-na, Box 977, Buffalo, N. Y.

MRS. JOY FOUND PROSTRATED IN ARIZONA FOREST

St. Louis Woman Rescued by Indians After Wandering Day and Night.

IS CARRIED TO HOTEL

Husband and Nicholas Longworth Head One Searching Party.

Indians and veteran guides of the Grand Canyon of the Colorado found and rescued Mrs. Charles F. Joy, wife of the Recorder of Deeds of St. Louis, after she had wandered for a day and a night in the forest skirting the rim of Arizona's great chasm.

As told in late editions of Thursday's Post-Dispatch, Mrs. Joy was discovered, chilled through and prostrated from nervous strain, after a search in which several parties were enlisted, one led by her husband and another by Congressman Nicholas Longworth. The Congressman's wife, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt-Longworth, was to have been the guest at dinner of Mrs. Joy. The two were friends in Washington when Mr. Joy represented the Eleventh Missouri District there.

Dispatches from Flagstaff, Ariz., Friday, state that another woman, a friend of Mrs. Joy and Mrs. Longworth, was with Mrs. Joy during her wandering in the forest.

Women Go for Walk.

The two women, who were guests at El Tovar Hotel, started Wednesday afternoon for a walk. They went outside the hotel reservation, and lost their direction in the woods.

When Mrs. Joy did not return to the hotel her husband became alarmed and called for a search. The power plant whistle was blown and a party of Navajo Indians, encamped near the hotel, appeared. Two old-time guides came with them.

The manager of a livery stable accompanied the Navajos in one direction, while Mr. Joy and a number of his friends went in another.

The hunt lasted through the night, and it was daylight when the Indians' party reached the hotel, carrying Mrs. Joy on a stretcher, while the other women rode in the conveyance.

Found Under Tree.

The women were found under a tree where they had sunk exhausted.

The searching party headed by Mr. Joy remained away from the hotel much longer.

Mr. and Mrs. Joy have been touring the West for some weeks past, in the hope of benefiting Mrs. Joy's health. Their home in St. Louis is at the Devonshire aaprtments, King's highway and Laclede avenue.

Had Planned School.

Mrs. Joy, since her husband left Congress two years ago, has spent much of her time in California, where she formerly lived. She planned a school resembling Mrs. Tingley's Point Loma school, whose teachings should be founded on the philosophies of India and the East. This plan was never carried out.

During Mr. Joy's several terms in Congress his wife made her home in Washington, and it was only since his retirement that she has spent much time in St. Louis. Their marriage took place in San Francisco while he was a member of the House. She was the widow of Dr. George Dwyer and was Miss Ina Grant before her first marriage.

SCHOOL PUPILS TO SEE "RIP"

Wednesday Matinee Free to Three Primary Grades.

St. Louis public-school children of the sixth, seventh and eighth primary grades will have an opportunity to see Thomas Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle" at the Century next Wednesday afternoon free of cost. The matinee on that day will be devoted to them as the guests of Mr. Jefferson, who hopes in this way to introduce and endear old Rip to the upcoming generation.

The Wednesday matinee will not begin until 3:15 o'clock in order th the children may reach the Century in good time after school closes for the day. Special tickets are being printed, and will be at the box office on Wednesday.

STABBED WITH HIS OWN KNIFE

John McMahon Sent to Hospital After Fight With Solicitor.

John McMahon, 60 years old, living in the rear of 4925 Reber place, is at the City Hospital suffering from a cut under the left shoulder in a fight with a solicitor whom he ordered off his premises.

The solicitor, it is said, at first refused to go. McMahon is said to have followed the man out of the yard, drawing the knife. The solicitor is said to have taken the knife away from McMahon and cut him.

GREETS SON SHE FEARED WAS DEAD

Mother Welcomes August Rockemann, Absent 10 Years Without Writing.

After having mourned her son as dead for 10 years, Mrs. Anna Rockemann of South Illinois street was overjoyed to see him standing at the door when she opened it in response to his knock.

In 1897 August Rockemann left home to seek work. His family never heard from again. Inquiries were made in different parts of the country, where it was thought he might be at work, but nothing was learned.

Long ago his mother gave him up as dead. Other members of the family died or moved away, and Mrs. Rockemann went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Jacob Herr. When she opened the door in response to a knock, she saw a young man standing there, hat in hand.

"Mother, don't you remember me?" he asked. Mrs. Rockemann gazed into his face, then clasped her long-lost son in her arms.

Young Rockemann explained that he had had a hard time finding work when he left, and had "knocked about" in the far West. When he did get settled, he determined not to write until he had saved enough to return and "surprise" the folks.

WARNER OUSTED BY MACHINISTS

New York Lodge Ordered to Unseat Man Mentioned in Erie Charges.

The International Association of Machinists, which has been in convention for 10 days in Druid's Hall, has ousted George Warner from its ranks. He was former business agent of Lodge 434, New York, and was sent by that lodge as a delegate to the convention here.

When he reached St. Louis and tried to enter the convention a fight against him began on the floor. It was charged that the Erie Railroad had paid him $10,000 a year for immunity from strikes.

Warner Denies Charge.

In defense, Warner said he had received money from the Erie, not for immunity from strikes, but for his services as a lobbyist. Warner declared that he had been tried of this same charge by his lodge in New York and exonerated.

The convention adopted a resolution calling upon Warner's lodge in New York to oust him within 30 days or suffer revocation of its charter.

The next annual convention of the International Association of Machinists will be held in Denver.

ACTION IS BEGUN TO BREAK LICENSE OF HEINZ' SALOON

Man in Whose Place There Was a Murder Accused of Law Violation.

Charges that Martin Heinz, a saloon keeper at 425 South Second street, conducts a disorderly house will be investigated by Excise Commissioner Mulvihill.

It was in a room above Heinz's saloon that Matthew Powers, a teamster of Granite City, was shot and killed by John McCabe, Sept. 15, in a quarrel about a woman of the name of May Morrison. The police say that Heinz rents the entire building in which he conducts his saloon and that "undesirable citizens" are among his tenants.

CHILD HIT BY CAR WAS ONLY BRUISED

Mother Believes Providence Took Care of Emily McKenna, Aged 4 Years.

Mrs. Frederick J. McKenna of 3973 Cook avenue believes that Providence saved her daughter, Emily, 4 years old, when the child was struck by an Olive car at Spring avenue and tossed her clear of the tracks. The child was only slightly bruised though the wheels passed near her.

Mrs. McKenna and four children alighted from an eastbound car Thursday and started north. Mrs. McKenna was carrying her youngest child and little Emily was in the lead. A westbound car struck her and knocked her down, but she fell clear of the track.

"NICE YOUNG MAN" ATTACKS WOMAN

Miss Nagel's Face Scratched in Daylight by Stranger She Met.

Miss Helen Nagel, who is housekeeper for Misses Campbell and McClure, school teachers living at 3651 Hartford street, met with an adventure with a daylight assailant Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, while on the way to visit her sister, Mrs. William Bruning of 4150 Beethoven avenue.

Miss Nagel was near the House of the Good Shepherd when she felt some uncertainty as to her way and inquired of a young man and he volunteered to act as her guide.

"As he seemed to be a nice young man," Miss Nagel told persons to whom she related her adventure, "I accepted his offer to show me the way to Gravois avenue, and he walked with me several blocks."

At Potomac and Gustine street the guide suggested a cut across a vacant lot covered with high weeds. The attack followed in which Miss Nagel broke her umbrella on her escort's head and also scratched his face. Miss Nagel's face was scratched in the struggle and her clothing torn. There were residences within half a block and the convent was in plain view. The young woman screamed and ran to one of the nearest houses, where she told of the affair and the police were notified.

The young man is described as wearing a dark suit, black Fedora hat. He has light eyes and dark hair.

When seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter, Miss Nagel said that she did not care to prosecute her assailant, despite the fact that her face shows scratches from the encounter.

ROOSEVELT TO HUNT IN LOUISIANA

Happy as a Boy Over Proposed Expedition for Big Game.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Secretary Loeb announced today that from Oct. 4 to Oct. 21 President Roosevelt will be in the practically unhunted canebrakes of Louisiana, whither none but a few invited guests must follow him. The expedition has been arranged by Civil Service Commissioner McIlhenny of Louisiana and John M. Parker of New Orleans.

The President is as happy as a boy just out of school over the prospect of slaughtering bear, deer and bobcats and of acquiring a new stock of first-hand data on lizards, scorpions, snakes and muskrats, with which to war on nature fakers. It is reported that he will embody his experiences in a book.

The canebrakes to be visited are not more than a hundred miles southwest of the Mississippi swamps, in which he hunted before several years ago. Negro guides h been engaged.

Some nature faker reported that a number of bear and wildcats were to be turned loose in the Louisiana swamps, but this is said not to be true, as the canebrakes of Northeastern Louisiana are plentifully supplied.

CLOTHING STORE IS ENLARGED

St. Louis Company to Formally Open Remodeled Quarters Saturday.

The St. Louis Clothing Co. of 906 Franklin avenue announces a formal opening of their newly enlarged and remodeled store Saturday, Sept. 21. Although this company has only been in business for three years, it was found necessary to increase the floor space to accommodate the stock of goods which their patronage demanded.

A specialty is made of hand-tailored ready-made clothes for men and boys only. The house is stocked from the product of three different factories, which make children's clothing exclusively. The company offers the inducement of "usual cash prices on credit."

Special inducements are promised for the opening Saturday, when the new stock will be displayed for inspection.

DEPUTY QUITS JOB IN QUARREL WITH SHERIFF

Olderworth, Offended by Herpel's Command, Throws Up His Place.

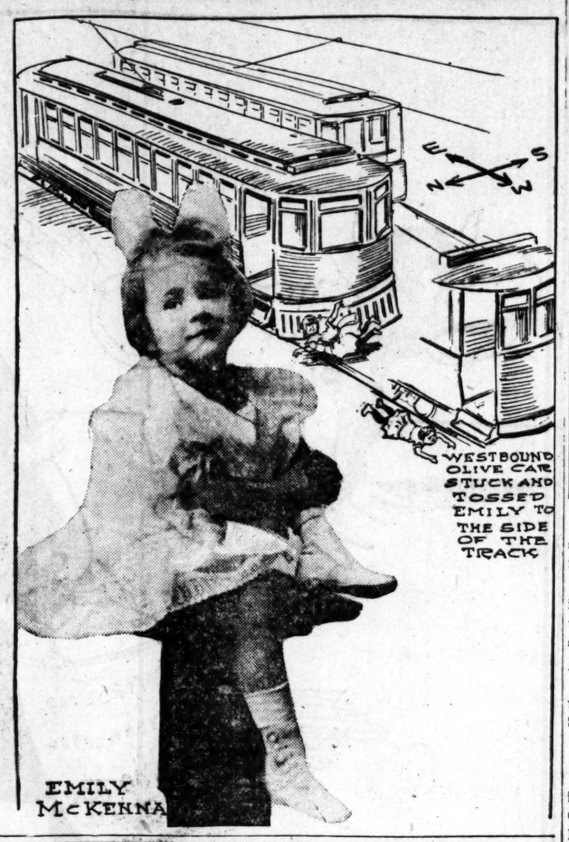

Deputy Sheriff William D. Olderwbrth resigned his position Friday, after an altercation with Sheriff Herpel of St. Louis County.

Early this summer Olderworth warned several saloon keepers that he would get warrants for them if they continued to violate the Sunday law. Olderworth believes these men tried later to make trouble for him.

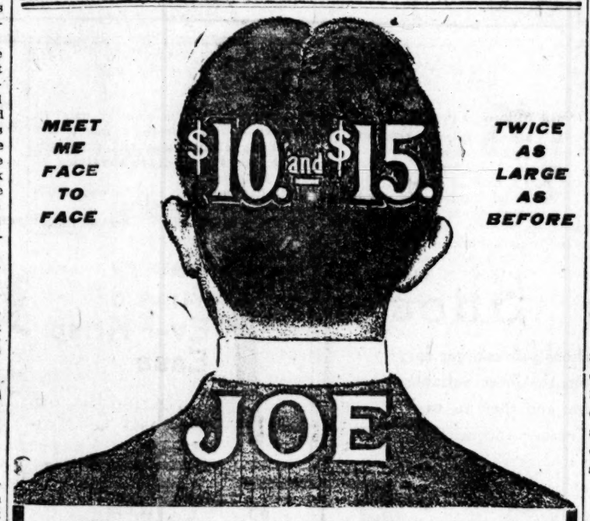

Friday morning, Olderworth said, Herpel handed him a batch of papers, and told him to serve them more carefully than in the past.

Olderworth said if Herpel didn't like the way he served the papers he could get someone else. Herpel said he would get someone else.

St. Louis Has Yet to Learn the Advantage of Savings

Only 62,709, Out of a Population of 750,000, Deposit Their Savings—Missouri and Its Metropolis Make Poor Showing in Comparison With Other Cities and States.

Comparison of Savings Deposits in St. Louis and Elsewhere

The report of the United States Comptroller for 1906 gives the amount of Savings Deposits and number of Savings Depositors as shown below:

STATE.	Amount of Deposits.	Number of Savings Depositors.	Average for Each Depositor.	Estimated Population (World Almanac 1907).	Per cent Depositors to Population.	Average Amt. on Deposit for Each Person.
Maine	$ 81,130,812	220,602	$367.77	730,000	30.2	$109
New Hampshire	75,945,667	174,476	435.28	432,618	40.3	175
Vermont	52,089,988	145,605	357.75	340,000	42.8	153
Massachusetts	662,808,313	1,829,487	362.29	3,066,514	59.67	214
Rhode Island	63,325,908	125,208	513.98	480,082	25.66	131
Connecticut	232,848,307	493,883	471.46	1,000,000	49.38	233
Total	$1,168,148,705	2,987,261	$391.04	6,079,512	49.17	$192
New York	$1,835,093,053	2,637,235	$506.25	8,066,672	32.6	$144
Iowa	116,488,371	335,527	347.18	2,216,068	15.14	53
California	260,435,714	357,783	741.89	2,000,000	17.38	133
From other sources the following figures are given.
Chicago	$ 160,900,000	425,000	$378.58	2,050,000	27.03	$ 80
St. Louis	18,812,823	62,709 (estimated).	300.00 (estimated).	750,000	8.36	25

It may be interesting to give the statistics for all of the savings banks in the United States.

(These figures do not include savings departments of trust companies, which are very large in Pennsylvania and Illinois.)

Amount of deposits...$3,299,544,601.00

(This is nearly equal to all of the money in circulation in the United States.)

Number of depositors.....7,495,202

Average per depositor.....$440.22

The Comptroller gives savings banks in only nineteen States and District of Columbia, and the aggregate of population of these States is 44,337,536.

Thus, one person out of every six of the entire population in all of the States having savings banks keeps a savings account. For each person in those States there is $77.00 in some savings bank.

There are practically no savings banks, as such, in Missouri, but the savings bank business in this State is done by the savings departments of trust companies, which have, as a rule, large capitals and thus give a greater measure of protection to the savings depositors than can be given by the ordinary savings bank, which is mutual and has no capital stock to protect its deposits.

According to the official statements of the trust companies in St. Louis, their aggregate savings deposits are $18,812,823.92.

Assuming the average deposits at $300 for each depositor, then there are only about 62,709 savings depositors in St. Louis, that is, only one person in every twelve in St. Louis has a savings account, while the average amount on deposit for each person in St. Louis is about $25.

The estimated population of Missouri (World Almanac, 1907), is 3,896,000

The estimated population of St. Louis is 750,000

On the basis of savings deposits in Massachusetts there should be:

	Amt. savings deposits	No. of depositors
In Missouri	$815,254,224.99	2,260,269
In St. Louis	159,073,995.12	439,077

On the basis of the entire New England States, there should be for St. Louis savings deposits of about $144,000,000.

On the basis of the adjoining State of Iowa, there should be for St. Louis savings deposits of about $44,000,000.

On the basis of the City of Chicago there should be for St. Louis savings deposits of about $60,000,000.

Missouri is as prosperous as any state in the Union. St. Louis for many years has enjoyed, and is still enjoying, a period of unprecendented prosperity.

The proportion of capital and surplus to deposits is greater in trust companies in St. Louis than in any other city, that is, the savings depositors have a greater margin of protection for their deposits in St. Louis than can be found elsewhere.

THE QUESTION IS: WHAT DO THE WAGE EARNER AND THRIFTY PEOPLE IN ST. LOUIS AND MISSOURI DO WITH THEIR SAVINGS?

If the people of St. Louis and Missouri deposited their savings as is done in other states what a large amount of interest the depositors would receive, and how greatly that large aggregate of deposits could be used toward making real estate loans and works of city and state development.

With assurance of absolute protection your patronage is asked.

THE BEEF TRUST'S LATEST.

The Federal authorities cannot be far wrong in assuming that the recent outrageous advance in the prices of meats was the result of concerted action by the Beef Trust.

Members of this combination who escaped criminal prosecution some time ago are now enjoined from doing the very thing which it is plain enough they have been doing. They may be punished for contempt, but a much more satisfactory way would be to proceed against them criminally by indictment.

The immunity granted to these men some months ago does not cover the misdeeds committed since that time. It ought to be easy enough to find evidence of the conspiracy, which has laid the heavy hand of monopoly upon every home in the land.

So far as this particular trust is concerned, its principal operations are confined to a few places, and common knowledge, to say nothing of its books and records, should easily establish its guilt or innocence.

There has been abundant public rejoicing over the successful prosecution of Standard Oil, but if the Beef Trust, a monopoly even more odious, can be made to suffer the penalties of the law which it is believed to have violated, the jubilation of the people will be unlimited.

The Beef Trust has been impudent and daring in its latest exactions. A speedy indictment and prosecution would do much to convince consumers that laws enacted for their protection are actually in force.

It is said that many Prohibition Republicans voted for Haskell in Oklahoma. Perhaps the Federal administration will take this into consideration and forgive the large Democratic majority.

THE FEAR OF A SMALL BOY.

Most grown-ups will sympathize keenly with the boy of Upper Alton who, having been a witness of an accidental shooting and being wanted as a witness at the inquest, took to the woods in terror.

When the lad was found by his father after a long search, nothing could convince him that he was not to suffer some fearful penalty, and when at length he was carried by force into the presence of the Coroner and gave his testimony haltingly, he could hardly be persuaded that he was not to be summarily dealt with.

The idea of discipline and of retribution which was uppermost in this urchin's mind once prevailed very generally in this country, but it has been succeeded to a large extent by indifference, audacity and defiance. In the earlier days many a boy suffered, like Dog Tray, for being in bad company, and most youths were taught that there was an intimate and a necessary relation between mischief and punishment.

The Upper Alton lad will not be killed this time, as he has found out to his immense relief, but we would advise him to obey his parents and to keep away from youths who carry guns.

A mysterious episode at Oyster Bay is naturally attracting attention. Two strange men called upon the President privately and were cordially received. Secretary Loeb did not know either of them and had no knowledge that they were coming. When visitors, and in particular when two unknowns, can get to the front porch of Sagamore and sit there for hours with their feet on the railing and Mr. Loeb all the time be as ignorant of what is going on as the cook or the gardener, it is time to amend the Constitution of the United States or to do something else.

MOKEVILLE'S MYSTERY.

John Vetter—by the way, can this be a descendant of rare old Nick Vedder, the tapster and friend of Rip Van Winkle?—now admits that he carried a quantity of beer with him when he crossed the St. Charles bridge on that fateful night when he thought he saw murder done.

Though he was perfectly sober and still stands by the accuracy of his original version of what he saw and heard, his admission, we fear, is calculated to take the edge off the mystery as it relates to St. Charles and leave curiosity free to follow it to Mokeville, where it assumes a deeper phase.

To Mokeville, breathing mystery by its very name, went the supposed principals of the St. Charles tragedy—John Henry Lambs and Victoria Case. Here the moral aspects of their mysterious disappearance present a perplexity which obscures for the time being all other features. A moral mystery it is, having a density that obfuscates all Mokeville and the entire community at large.

Has Mokeville been sheltering another Paul and Virginia or were the twain properly and conventionally wedded? It has been alleged on behalf of them that a ceremony took place at St. Charles, and the younger brother, who set out to accompany them until they should wed, finally left them, in the belief either that they had done so or would do so right away.

John Henry Lambs, we hope, is no black sheep. He went to work like a genuine husband, in the brickyard, and Virginia paid seemingly domestic visits to the Mokeville grocery store, where he had established credit. If she is no more than the imitator of that Virginia who loved Paul, her marriage to John Henry is a consummation devoutly to be wished, for her sake and for his, and for the sake of Mokeville, which is in no mood for soul-mates and could not bear the thought that it had been harboring a scandal.

Senator Foraker thinks the Constitution should be violated in time of war only. A bad habit, however, is always hard to overcome.

EVERYBODY HAPPY IN OKLAHOMA.

According to a statement issued by the Republican committee in Oklahoma all parties in the new State appear to be well satisfied with the results of the recent election.

Mr. Frantz, the Republican candidate, who was defeated, is said to be "greatly encouraged" by the showing that he made at the polls. He "made great inroads on the Democrats, cutting their estimates all to pieces." Mr. Frantz is also elated because he carried Lawton and Muskogee, the homes of two important Democratic candidates.

On the other hand, the Democrats are comforting themselves with the reflection that they elected nearly all of their candidates and that with two senators and most of the representatives in Congress, they will exert an important influence upon national affairs at Washington.

Last but not least in this instance, the Prohibitionists are gleeful because they carried their point and did so with the assistance of Democrats. If there is anything that warms the cockles of a Prohibitionist's heart, it is to put the lid on a Republican.

There seems to be no reason, then, why universal happiness should not prevail in Oklahoma. Mr. Frantz made his inroads and he fairly slaughtered Democratic estimates. The Democrats have the offices. The Prohibitionists have prohibition.

If Mr. Roosevelt has the heart to take any action calculated to dispel this benign, this almost beatific situation, he will be as impervious to goodfellowship as a Standard Oil tank car.

Is a "liquidating trustee" one to whom stock is intrusted for watering purposes? These high financiers coin nearly as many phrases as they do dollars.

MEN WHO LOOK FOR SOMETHING EASY.

The fact that certain of the new police recruits in St. Louis explain their desire to wear uniforms by saying that they are tired of hard work is not very encouraging.

A question of as much importance as those which relate to health, stature, age, morals and intellect is that of motive. Why is a man led to apply for a position as policeman? A laborer accustomed to pick and shovel who saw a stenographer at work thought his occupation, involving only the use of a small pencil, must be easy, but he changed his mind later on.

What in the duty of a police officer impresses the applicant most? Some people see little in any occupation except the most obvious or the most agreeable things. Now that American soldiers are not permitted to "soldier," enlistments are falling off and desertions are increasing.

Is the police recruit impressed with the responsibilities of the service as well as with the fact that an officer sometimes appears to have little to do?

There are lonely beats to travel, there are sleepless vigils, there is exposure, there is danger, there is attentiveness and there is the warrior's sense of duty. Are the applicants familiar with these or are they guided only by resplendent blue and brass, by love of a little brief authority, by imaginings of rest and diversion and by expectation of an easy and profitable routine?

It makes a great deal of difference whether a man enters upon service of any kind with right ideas or not. In public life as well as in private life the new recruit who is looking for something easy should be permitted by all in authority to continue the search.

Oklahoma wants to come in dry, but T. R. may put a damper on her.

WILL HE FIND THE RIVER DUSTY?

Old rivermen in that speculative and ruminative mood usual to the craft on shore leave are wondering whether there will be water enough in the channel to let the President float down from Keokuk according to schedule.

That favorite witticism of the vaudeville sketch team, "How dusty the river is today!" seems in a fair way to be illustrated if the Mississippi keeps on falling at its present rate until the first of the month.

Although the Lily draws but two and a half feet, she will need the stilts Mark Twain recommended for Missouri River travel if low water mark catches her midway the trip with her precious baggage; and to continue the presidential cruise by camel down the arid and dusty bed may ultimately become a picturesque necessity.

Yet the illustrative and educational values of the trip would be enhanced by low water. The less water, the better demonstration of the need of 14 feet through the valley—and that, after all, is the purpose of the whole affair.

Ante-mortem statements made in the fear of death are entitled to the highest credence, and the dying declarations of the Standard Oil Company are profoundly impressive.

BUTTER AND ITS IMITATIONS.

There is no more contemptible swindle than that which is perpetrated in the sale of oleomargarine for butter, and it is not helped any by the fact that some great corporations profit by it.

It is to be remembered, however, that there are swindles in butter also, and that in the effort to reach the oleo sharpers many other offenders quite as objectionable have been lost sight of.

A good deal of the genuine butter that is offered for sale is a high crime in itself, and at certain seasons of the year most of it, good, bad and outrageously bad, is treated to an artificial coloring bath. It is no defense of the oleo swindle to say that calcimined butter is as much of a false pretence as illuminated oleomargarine.

The buttermakers have been well protected by law as against the imitation article. It is to be regretted that they have rewarded the people's generosity in this respect in too many instances by adopting the very methods against which they have protested.

Mr. Rohne, aged 66, whose matrimonial chase the public has egged on till it culminated in the capture of a winsome widow, says now that he feels his political aspirations reviving. His experience appears to explain the strange cases of Platt and Depew.

The hard work that drives street car conductors to seek police appointments comes in the crushing stand-up hours, when it is impossible to collect all the fares.

Now that women in Great Britain have been made eligible as town and county councilors and aldermen, the suffragettes may be a little less noisy.

Twenty-three states with a smaller population than Oklahoma have been admitted to the Union. How can we now say "23" to Oklahoma?

Had the law forbidding selling liquor to a drunkard been enforced, half the State of Missouri would not now be dry.

So little clothing is necessary in Panama that we might as well have called the great canal the Pajamas.

Lieutenant-Governor Bellamy of Oklahoma is doubtless looking forward to the admission of his State.

There is to be a great saving in sugar. The cranberry crop is short.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Safe Work for a Deaf Man.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

An ambitious married man, 37 years old, hearing affected, has a family of six, is working at a trade which is unsafe and not remunerative on account of deafness. He has a good education. Will the kind readers of the Post-Dispatch give their opinion of what kind of employment befits him which is safe and remunerative? Thanking you for any suggestions you may make. DEAFY.

The Profit on Necessaries.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why is there not a national law passed prohibiting unreasonable profits on the necessaries of life, such as food, water, coal, ice, milk, drugs, wool, cotton, leather, petroleum, etc.? There should be only a reasonable percentage allowed on such necessities, then people would have a chance to live. As it is, a few creatures who happen to have millions, buy them up, as they do everything else, and make the people pay what they ask or starve. It is time such a law was passed by our Government. Everybody would vote for it, as it is a vital necessity.

AN OBSERVER OF THE TIMES.

For Clean Newsboys.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I think the Post-Dispatch could advance the interests of St. Louis and at the same time do a good stroke of business by insisting that newsboys keep their faces and hands reasonably clean. Standing at the corner of Market and Fourth last night I saw three or four boys with papers under their arms, and with faces and hands that were indescribably dirty. I have often gone without a paper rather than buy one from a boy with filthy hands. Some of these boys would be very attractive if they were clean. I think the Post-Dispatch, which has done so much for the newsboys, should furnish them with soap and water and insist that they go out with their papers looking clean and wholesome. It would pay all concerned. CITIZEN.

A St. Louis Stocking.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

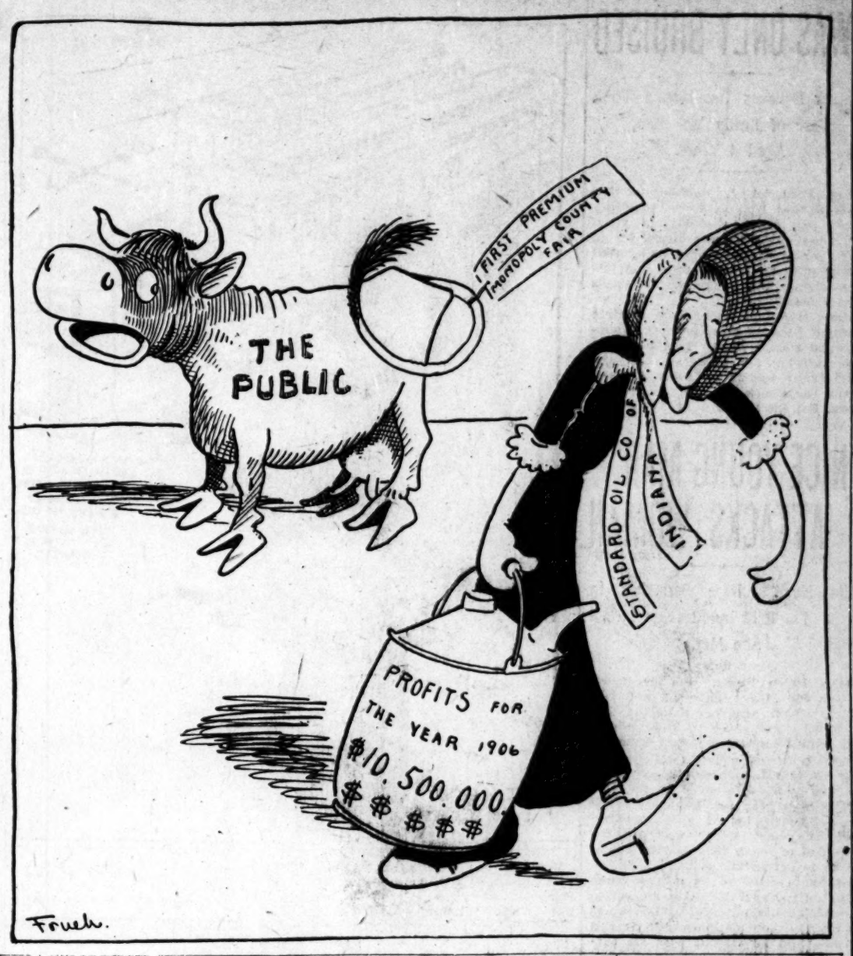

"St. Louis is said to have a larger number of people who hoard their savings at home than any other large city." This statement from the Post-Dispatch was quoted at a hotel table last night, and some argument ensued as to whether or not the assertion were correct. One of the gentlemen, a contractor, warmly defended the proposition, and offered as evidence the following story: "In North St. Louis there lives a family of butchers. The father and his eight sons run so great a number of shops in that locality that other butchers fight shy of that part of town. The family of 12 all live together in a big prison-like looking red brick house. There are in the yard three great, fierce dogs, which strain at their chains all day, but have the freedom of the premises at night. As soon as darkness comes the windows of that house are all locked, the blinds pulled down, and the doors locked, bolted and chained. The two daughters have become moneyed women through frugal housekeeping, and a careful saving of their brothers' board. Last year I was given the contract to build some flats for these ladies. When the day came for the final settlement they were owing me $10,000. After the bills had all been examined one of the daughters went upstairs, whence she presently returned with an apron full of money. It turned out to be exactly $10,000, most of it in $5 bills. She explained that her father did not consider banks safe, and that he allowed none of his family to use them." BLANK.

Sunday as a Rest Day.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I notice that our Jewish fellow citizens contend that because they observe Saturday as their day of worship that they should not be compelled to close their business on the first day of the week commonly called Sunday, as provided by the statute laws of this State. The argument put forth by their attorneys is "That it would be absurd to expect these men to keep their places shut on Sunday. They have a right to observe their Sabbath in their own way." Another speaker says it would be an injustice because they, of their own accord, hold Saturday as their Sabbath to also compel them to close their business on Sunday. These gentlemen fail to recognize the fact that every day in the week is celebrated as the Sabbath day by different nationalities and sectarianists which the following statement will show. Sunday is the Christians' day, Monday is the Greeks' day, Tuesday is Persians' day, Wednesday is Assyrians' day, Thursday is Egyptians' day, Friday is the Turkomans' day, Saturday is the Hebrew or Jews' day. The foregoing shows that every day in the week is observed by different religionists as a Sabbath day and if religionists were exempt under the law the only persons who would obey the statute law, Section 2243 R. S. 1899, would be the Christians. Our fellow citizens of the Jewish faith make a mistake when they assume that the first day of the week is selected because it is the day observed by Christians as their Sabbath day. Under the Constitution of the United States no sectarian religion is recognized, as in foreign countries. We have no State church. The first day of the week is declared by law a day of rest for hygienic reasons. The Supreme Court of the State of Missouri, in the case of the City of St. Louis vs. Dr. Lassus, speaking of the Sunday law, says: "These acts are sustained as municipal or police regulations, without reference to the fact that the day of rest is also the Christians' day of rest and worship." THE DEMOCRATIC ORACLE.

"Judge" Jimmie Miles is credited
With a controlling vote
In Democratic policies,
And he's a man to quote.
Why don't you, Jimmie, put our bridge
At Chouteau—grant our plea?
"De Thold Ward is feminist it there,"
Says Jimmie Miles to me.

Oh, Jimmie, tell, oh, tell to me,
Does "Jiggers" Gallagher,
"Boots" Brennan, bold "Cap.' Troll, McShane,
Without your word dare stir?
And Hussey, gallant Hussey, too,
Our new affinity?
"Well, dose pals are de candy kids,"
Says Jimmie Miles to me.

And what about L. Daley's bunch,
Oh, tell us Jimmie Miles?
Why oust so many old-time friends?
Such conduct always "riles."
"Oh, Simon's sore at Bill Flynn, see.
Doc has a little bee
That's always buzzing 'Mayor Jack,'"
Says Jimmie Miles to me.

And will you let him Mayor be?
I breathed with gentle sigh.
"Not on your life-like tin," says Jim,
And Jimmie winked an eye.
"We'll make Doc do a hundred, sure,
Him and his little bee
Can back up—I'm for bigger fish,"
Says Jimmie Miles to me.

HONESTY IMPERATIVE.

"I hope that the children will buy that jaguar for the park," said the Thoughtful Citizen. "His example of honesty would be excellent among the other animals."

"But why do you think he would be honest?" inquired the Inquisitive Resident.

"He would have to be," asserted the first speaker. "If he broke the law he would certainly be spotted."

THE BROWNS.

We're fond of Hedges' Trilby smile
And that silent McAleer,
Whene'er George Stone is at the bat
We all rise up and cheer.

And Bobby Wallace for our mon.,
And the boiler-maker, too—
With Powell in the pitcher's box
We root to pull him through.

When Howell spits upon the ball
We whoop up things a lot,
And Barney Pelty is our friend—
Who on the Browns is not?

But—ah, that last and awful word
Which now must spoil it all—
Why don't these hefty gentlemen
Play pennant-winning ball?

THE POETS' SCALE.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Poets' Union, No. 23, at Walhalla Hall last night, Walking Delegate Red E. Righter made the speech of the evening.

"As the poet Astor once said," he exclaimed, "genius is being ground down under the iron heel of oppression. Let us not forget our rights. The world cannot do without us. Poetry is the light of the universe and it has been well said that lights is the most precious of man's possessions.

"Now let me call your attention to the analogy between poetry and gas. Without a meter with which to measure the feet neither is of any account. Poetry, like gas, continues to flow whether you are away for the summer or not. In connection with poetry I might say something about tanks and pipes and joints, but I must leave something to your imagination.

"As has been well said by one of our members:

" 'Light is a precious, priceless thing,'
So sang the poet, all inspired.
'Nay, nay,' said Mr. City Man,
'A priceless thing? You make me tired.
You may believe the word you write,
And think you know it all, but then
For every foot of it you get
You'll have to pay your dollar ten.'

"Now, I move you, gentlemen, that in future our scale shall be based on the prices for gas, $1.10 a foot for light verse and 90 cents a foot for cooking poetry."

The motion carried without a dissenting vote.

THE GOOD SHIP "HUNTRESS."

It was the good ship "Huntress"
That sailed the stormy sea,
And O her St. Louis sailors
Were sick as sick could be!
All down the distant Southern coast
From Pensacola's strand
The cry was—"Stop the ship and I'll Get off and walk to land!"

It was the good ship "Huntress"—
And O, how she did roll.
Till each St. Louis tar gave up all
But his immortal soul!
"Naval reserves" are what they're called,
But nought reserved was there,
For it turned 'em inside outward—
This dreadful "mal de mer!"

It was the good ship "Huntress"—
At least that's what they say,
But wait till the St. Louis sailors
Get home—O happy day!
Then ask them of the "Huntress"—
And heres' a friendly hint—
The names they'll call that blamed old ship,
Well, they won't be fit to print!

VOTE FOR ROHNE.

It isn't difficult to discern the line of reasoning that leads Charles Rohne, the 66-year-old bridegroom who obtained a 45-year-old bride by employing the town crier to proclaim his matrimonial yearning, now to announce his intention of entering politics.

Benedict Rohne is pushing his streak of luck like a shrewd poker player. He sees that the cards are running his way. A man who wins a wife twenty years his junior in a marriage competition conducted from the housetops may surely hope to enter the Missouri Legislature with flying colors. Besides, he'll have a pull on the women to beat the band!

"Vote for Rohne the Bridegroom!"—there's your ready-made campaign slogan for this senatorial candidate. What woman, hearing it, but will at once begin "plugging" for Rohne on sentimental grounds? She knows that, wanting a wife, and not seeing what he wanted, Rohne asked for it. She knows that he gave every competitor a fair show. She knows that he wasn't afraid to face the music—forty women swooped down on him with marriage in their eyes and he never turned a hair. Calmly he "chose his East and chose his West and chose the one that he loved best"—and then, having gone into matrimony, went just as dauntlessly into politics.

Vote for Rohne!

REFLECTIONS.

The 12-inch gun is of little value in killing flies.

It is a crime to conceal a crime. It is worse when the attempt fails—that is a blunder.

A woman would not live with her husband if he were what she thinks she wants him to be.

The room at the top rarely has steam heat and is almost always without a private bath.

Bargains would often be cheaper if they were so dear we could not afford them.

SUNDAY READING.

Something has been said about danger from quicksand found under St. Louis. There is a river of it under the business section, but how all danger can be averted is shown in an interesting article in the coming Sunday Post-Dispatch.

At last one of the ablest men in Missouri has begun the work of creating good roads in the State. How he is doing it is described in the Sunday Post-Dispatch, whose reporter made a personal investigation of the work.

If the plans of St. Louis inventors succeed, all the babies will be assured of milk in germ-proof receptacles. The Sunday Post-Dispatch would like to see this come about, and has therefore described the inventions for its readers.

A new Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch has been discovered near St. Louis. She is the sunshine of her little community. And a married pair, on a Missouri farm, have begun the work of caring for city waifs which made Dr. Barnardo known all over the world. These stories are well worth reading.

A Missouri woman won the prize for Bible knowledge. See how many of the questions put in the contest you can answer. They will be found in the Sunday Post-Dispatch.

Do you know which is the champion baby block in St. Louis? The Post-Dispatch has found it and pictured quite a number of the prettiest babies in it.

These are but a few of the good things which, with all the news the Sunday Post-Dispatch will contain, will make a newspaper which will delight every home which it enters.

Value of Waterways.

From the New Orleans Pickyune.

The value of commercial waterways is seen in the comparative growth of Chicago and St. Louis. Chicago first appeared in the census reports in 1840 with 4500 population in round number. St. Louis, which started with 10,000 people in 1820, kept far ahead of Chicago until 1880. In 1870 Chicago had 299,000, while St. Louis had 311,000. Then it was that St. Louis began to abandon the river trade. Before that her boats had plied on the upper Mississippi, on the lower Mississippi, on the Ohio and the Missouri, sending as many as thirty steamers in a year into the Dakotas and Montana.

But that has all become a thing of the past. St. Louis gave up the river trade, and in 1880 she had 350,000 population to Chicago's 503,000, while in 1900 St. Louis had 575,000 to about 1,700,000 for Chicago. Whatever else had been the cause of these phenomenal changes in the two cities, the fact remains that Chicago had been constantly developing transportation on the lakes until her interior commerce by water is greater than that of any other city, but not satisfied with that, Chicago is now clamoring loudly for a deep water route from the lakes through the Mississippi River to the Gulf of Mexico.

NOTES AND QUERIES.

Answers to Questions From Readers of the Post-Dispatch.

Write but one question. Sign but one initial. Legal questions must be simple. No bets decided. Business addresses not given. Address "Answers," Post-Dispatch.

M.—Phone railroad offices.

HAMMOND.—Ask any florist.

G.—Texas cattle outrun ponies.

N.—French alphabet has no W.

S. F. T.—St. Louis is a greater railroad center than Indianapolis.

READER.—Mexican dollar is worth only 42 cents in St. Louis, commercially.

C. P.—You must find some one who knows the young woman and then be introduced.

X. Y. Z.—To prevent mouth-breathing at night, fasten the lips together with a piece of silk isinglass court plaster.

C.—Standard Dictionary pronunciation of swastica, swas-ti-ka; accent first syllable; first a short, second as a in arm.

R. A.—Four sixes beat five aces in "Indian" dice. Five aces do not beat anything.

NELL.—We do not give matrimonial advice. There are too many divorces now, and we do not wish to lengthen the dockets.

JARO.—If John Smith is not known to the bank teller he must be identified before a check made payable to him can be cashed.

R. B. M.—We found no such name or word as Bushwall. There are Bushell and Bushnell, but no Bushwall, so far as we have searched.

C. S. S.—If party opening a jackpot in a poker game where nobody stays is called to show his openers he must show his whole hand.

SCHOOL TEACHER.—Cases of children working in factories should be reported to the Factory Inspector, J. W. Sikes, Liggett Building.

MABEL.—If you have used the formulas given here, and there are still nits in your hair, you will have to get someone to pick them out.

READER.—Yellowstone Park may have derived its name from the color of some of the rock in that region. We have no official information.

MRS. H. H.—You can sue for separate maintenance. See a lawyer. Cost would be lawyer's fee and court charges, the latter not amounting to much.

WOULD-BE.—You should have someone teach you if you are to learn the use of the various drawing instruments. Or you might learn from some book catalogued at the book stores or Public Library.

FOREIGNER.—If you are without means, some generous lawyer might take your case without fee. Doubtless the Court would allow you to make a statement in your own defense in divorce suit if you have no lawyer.

R. A. H.—Concrete cellar, 10x20, 6 feet deep, will cost, labor and material, about $300, including excavation. Portland cement, 5 barrels; clean macadam, 10 barrels; sand, 15 barrels. Mix one part cement, three parts sand, five parts macadam. (To examine title, $5 to $15.)

WILSON.—Beginning with first of January, 1900, 1000 weeks would be the equivalent of 19 years, 3 weeks and 6 days. The number of odd days is affected by the number of leap years included in the 19 years, hence you should have stated in your inquiry at what date the 1000 weeks are to begin.

GOLDIE.—Though the cleaning of a silk mull dress should never be undertaken by an amateur, spilled spots can be gently rubbed with powdered magnesia, and left for 48 hours, then lightly brushed with a bit of white silk. (To remove ink from any fabric, place the stain over steam and apply salt and lemon juice.)

MRS. H.—Chickens eat almost anything. They should always have grass and other green things. They should have a place to wallow. See that they have gravel. All possible range should be given them, and the coops should be kept perfectly clean. Do not overfeed them. Scatter their food in hay or something that will make them scratch for it.

F. F.—In all 452 persons lost their lives as the result of the San Francisco earthquake, April 18-19, 1906, according to the City Health Department report to the State Board of Health. Of the victims 266 were killed by falling walls, 177 perished by fire, seven were shot and two died as the result of ptomaine poisoning due to eating "emergency" canned goods of poor quality; 420 are believed to have been white, 18 Chinese and four Japanese. Eleven were less than a year old. These figures relate to the deaths proved to have occurred. Property loss, $400,000,000. Cliff House burned Sept. 7, 1907. Value, $50,000.

B.—National banks operate under a charter granted by the Federal Government. They must conform to national laws respecting percentage of reserves, character and size of loans and many other matters. They are examined regularly by men operating under the direction of the Comptroller of the Currency and must publish statements of their condition at least five times a year, when called for by the Comptroller. State banks are chartered by the Government of the State in which they do business, and they are entirely free from any national Government regulation. No State bank is permitted to call itself a national bank.

PARTNER.—As a stockholder you have a right to know what are the assets and liabilities of the company. You would have been wise had you made that demand before you purchased the stock. A company is supposed to have had in hand actual value equal to its capital stock, when it represents itself as full paid. But it may have sustained losses equal to one-half or more of that value, between the time it was organized and the time you bought. The price of stock is fundamentally based on actual values, but when listed stock takes on or loses value according to the demand and the willingness of people to pay for it.

I. K.—Careful hygiene of the scalp will often counterbalance hereditary predisposition for a number of years, and even after the hair has actually begun to fall, proper stimulation will, to a certain extent, and for a limited time, often restore to the hair its pristine thickness and strength. Any of the rubefacients may be prescribed for this purpose for daily use, such as croton oil, 1½ per cent; tincture of cantharides, 1½ per cent; oil of cinnamon, 40 per cent; tincture of capsicum, 15 per cent; oil of mustard, 1 per cent; or any one of a dozen others. Tincture of capsicum is one of the best, and for a routine prescription the following has served well: Resorcin, 5 parts; tincture of capsicum, 15 parts; castor oil, 10 parts; alcohol, enough to make, 100 parts; oil of rose, q. s. to perfume. It is recommended that the stimulant be changed from time to time, so as not to rely on one to the exclusion of others. Jaborandi, oxygen gas, quinine and other agents have enjoyed a great reputation as hair producers for a time, and have then taken their proper position as aids, but not specifics, in restoring the hair.

K.—Molting season for canaries, July to November; for birds had in August or September it may last to the end of December or longer. They never appear to shed their feathers freely, and the change takes place almost imperceptibly. Some say that when birds do not cast their feathers at the proper time they get a new covering without shedding their old feathers. If old bird shows no signs of molting before the end of September, place in a small bird cage. When it has become familiar with this cage, begin to cover it gradually until it can feed in total darkness, then place cage in very warm part of room where fire is burning almost constantly. Before so confining it, give it a little magnesia in its drinking water, a senna leaf or two, as a slight aperient is requisite. Keep closely covered until it begins to molt freely, when it may be gradually uncovered and removed to a cooler place, but not into a room without fire. A little soot in water helps to molt. This mixture may be given: Vinum colchici, 2 drams; sp. ether nit., ½ ounce; water sufficient for 4 ounces. Teaspoonful of this to every fluid ounce of water in place of the ordinary drinking water.

HOW TO KEEP A HUSBAND AT HOME.

The Post-Dispatch Offers $10 in Prizes for the Best Advice to Deserted Wives.

WITHIN a week the Post-Dispatch has received five letters from wives asking advice in the management of husbands. Oddly enough three are singularly alike and contain practically the same complaint, that their husbands refuse to spend the evening at home. They ask: How can I keep my husband home at night? Below are two of these letters. The Post-Dispatch will pay $10 in prizes of $3, $2 and $1 to the authors of the seven best answers to their question.

The Wife of "A Man's Man."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Won't some of your readers please tell me how to keep my husband at home nights? I've tried every way I can think of. He is a "fan," I believe they call it, but I can't understand how a ball game can keep him till 11 at night. If it isn't a ball game it is a club meeting or an out-of-town friend passing through. The same man has been here from Chicago three times this month, and every time my husband had to go to the train with him. I have three children to care for all day, and when night comes and I have them in bed, I would so like to sit down and have a nice long chat with my husband. But he hasn't been home but two evenings in over a week, and then he wouldn't talk. As soon as he reads the paper he goes to sleep. He takes no interest in his home or the children, yet he is called "a good fellow." He is "a man's man," and is well liked by all his business associates. Before I was married everybody told me I was wise in choosing a man whom men liked, but I would be so much happier if he could like just one woman more than he does. I try to make home attractive to him, but all my wiles to trap him pass unnoticed. It has come to be a mark of high honor if he comes home at meal time.

MRS. M. A., East St. Louis.

Here Is Another Deserted Wife.

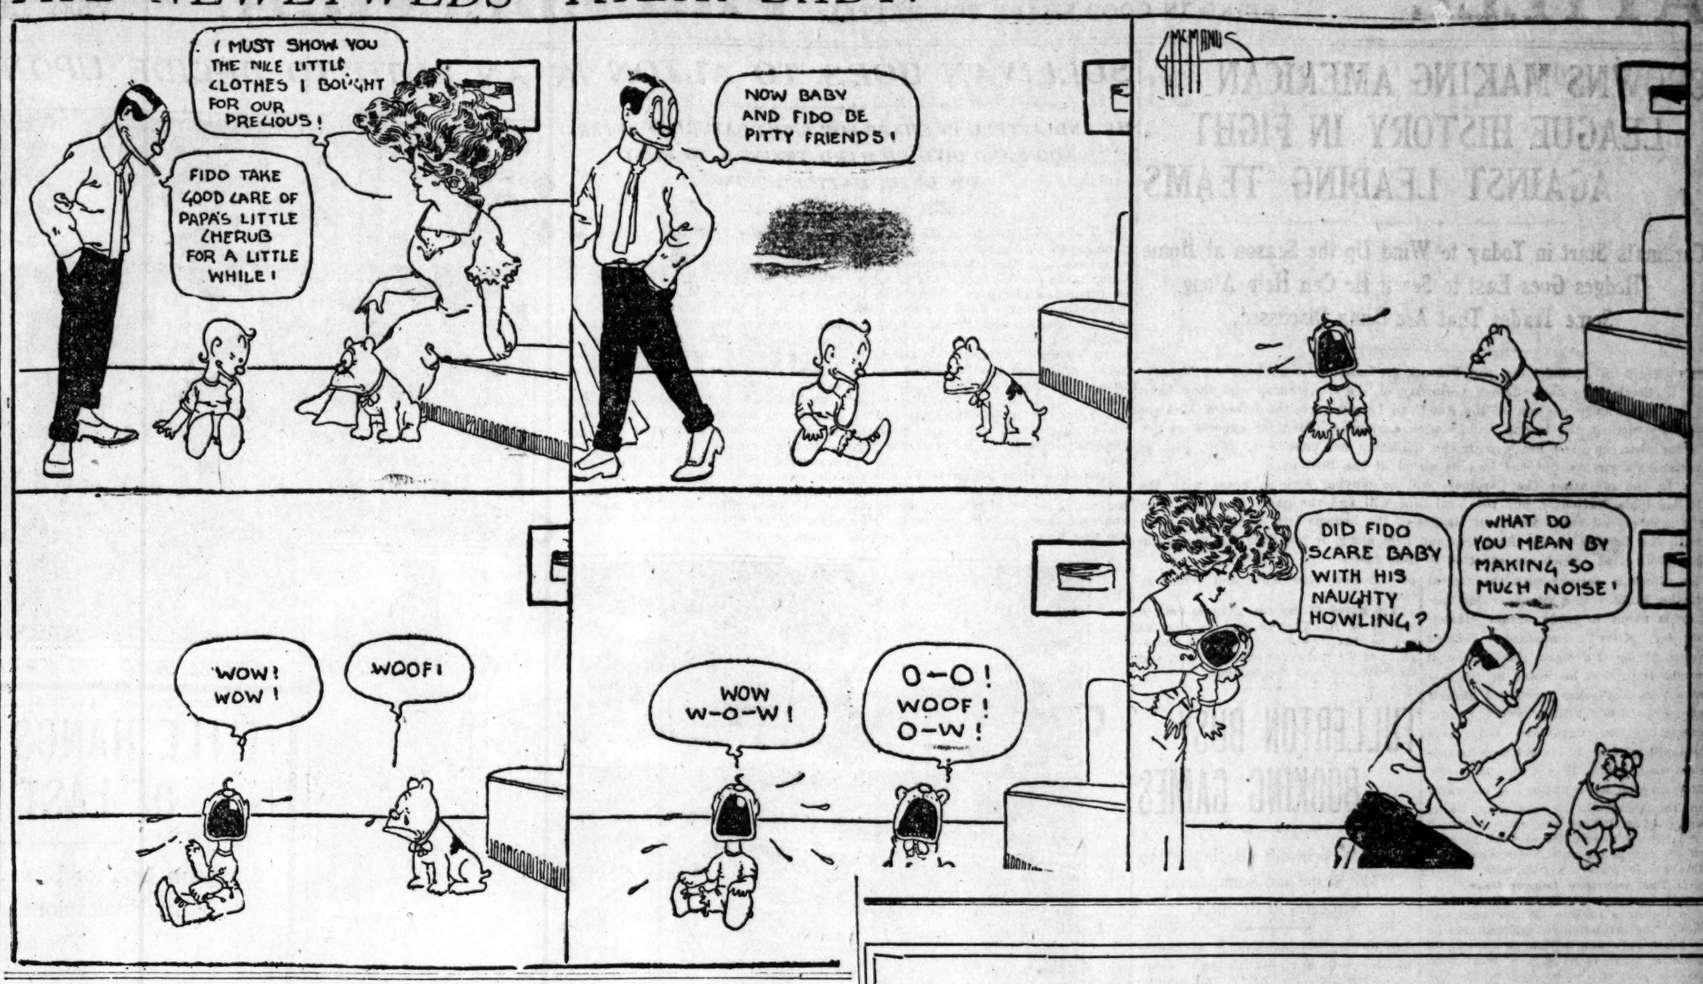

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Will some reader of the Post-Dispatch kindly tell me what I must do, or not do, to keep my husband home with me in the evening. I have exhausted all my own resources in this task and and I am sure I need sympathy and advice. I suppose I will be told to "make home attractive." I know, of course, that if home was more attractive to my husband than his lodges and clubs and engagements with business friends and politicians that he would stay there instead of going out. But how can I make it more attractive? I have done everything I could think of. Can anyone advise me what else I must do? I am sure my husband loves me, although he is not as affectionate as I would wish him to be. I study his wants and try to please him, but after dinner he begins to fidget until he goes out. It really does look as if he preferred some one's company to mine, and what am I to do?

WHEN IS MAN MOST ATTRACTIVE?

A Discussion by Readers of the Post-Dispatch in Competition for Seven Prizes Aggregating $10.

I admire a man the most when he has reached the age of a gentleman, no matter how old or how young he may be. Nothing I despise more than a man to be green enough to say disrespectful things of a woman. They are the very men that are bringing the woman down to what some of them are today. They win them with their smooth tongues, flashy ties and stockings, just to let them fall to ruin. These men are not to be admired at all. I admire a man's appearance at the age of 20 to 30, when he has attained his full growth of manhood, and is not too much of a bachelor to dress well, and sensible enough to select suitable clothing—not cheap, flashy things. He then attracts most attention but little esteem. A man is attractive and admired by women when he has attained common sense, good manners and respect for women, at any age.

MRS. A. CRADIT,
Tarkio, Mo.

Let us consider only that species known as the "noblest work of God." This man's physical and mental vigor reaches its height between the ages of 40 and 60 years. Prior to this period he might have been admired by Dollie for his eyes, or Mollie for his size, but these are the exceptions and represent only the individual of womankind. If he has married at the proper age, between 25 or 30 years, as our ideal man should have done, he is now in the zenith of his life—a king, his home a kingdom, and all women, be they good or otherwise, admire him as the great oak of the forest, the stronghold about which clings the weaker and more delicate tendrils of mankind.

MRS. J. J. KIRWAN.
Gratiot, Wis.

Man is most attractive to women of sense (many girls of 15 years have more sense than many women over 50 years of age), when he has proven himself capable of doing his share of the world's work.

B. JEWELL,
1020 Hamilton avenue.

The writer, employed for several years in an office where there are from 20 to 25 men of different ages, considers a man between the ages of 25 and 30 the most attractive, has found them to be better natured and more congenial. They are as matured as a girl of the same age and, if they are ever going to possess any sense will have acquired it by then; are capable of holding the best positions and commanding high salaries. When a man has reached the age of 40 to 45 he is considered almost incapacitated for good work. At 35 he has become so set in his ideas, opinions and ways, almost to the point of being a crank, that a girl younger than he, frivolous and not as matured in mind, would not be very companionable. In nine cases out of ten, marriages between people about the same age, a year or two either way making little difference, are the most happy, their tastes, ideas and pleasures are identical and remain so through life, and they grow old together.

NELLIE DUNKLEY.

Man is most attractive to the maiden when he is a suitor for her heart and hand. Perhaps at no age or at any time in life does man appear more attractive to the young woman than when he is wooing her. If he is truly in love he will endeavor to use the best language, display the most pleasant disposition and pay her homage in many different ways; this develops his attractiveness to woman, and she pictures him as her noble knight and he is perhaps at the zenith of his glory as far as she is concerned. Sometimes, if the future brings bitter disappointments, she looks back to the past and wonders how John could have been so attractive to her. To some women, men are the most attractive when they have reached the more mature years and stand in all the glory of manhood and strength, prepared to face life's battle with a brave heart. The responsibility of a family sometimes develops the best qualities in man and changes the most uncouth man into a being of much attractiveness. In the case of our beloved McKinley, who was an attractive man as citizen, soldier and President, yet he reached the pinnacle of his attractiveness by his devotion to his invalid wife. No power, prince or potentate, held sufficient charm to allure him from the side of the one who had put her life in his keeping.

MRS. C. T. WHITE.
423 Clay street, St. Charles, Mo.

A man is at his best from 45 to 60. His character is fixed by that time and in his chosen calling in life he should have achieved a reasonable degree of success. Women do not love men, they admire them: It has always been so. There is truth in the old saying: "That only the brave deserve the fair." Therefore, while a woman may fear a rival younger than herself, a young man may well fear a rival older than himself if the older man is a successful one.

MULVIHILL AND HIS LID.

The Post-Dispatch Offers a Prize of $5 to the Reader Who Writes the Best Limerick on This Subject.

When Mulvihill came to Missouri,

So he put on the lid,
Yes, kind reader, he did,
And Folk has helped him like fury.

BERT LISEC,

What wouldn't they do
To this lid-autocrat, Mulvihill?

Does slim Tom Mulvihill ever feel dry?
And O, if he did
Would he lift his lid
And take just a few wee drops on the sly?

FREDERICK HAUSCHULTE.
2329 South Seventh street.

He doesn't weigh much, does Tom Mulvihill,
Yet he sits on the lid and keeps it still,
And from Sat. midnight
Till Monday's first light
The town is drier than any lime-kiln.

H. G. KLEIN.

Your lids, Mulvihill, Mulvihill,
For oders resemble a "still;"
For many are rifted
While others are lifted;
You do not regret it, but will.

MARRYING A MAN TO REFORM HIM.

ARE women developing a new fad for marrying convicts? It looks like it. Miss Clara Leach, one of the richest women in Worcester, Mass., has just announced her intention of marrying a man who was pardoned in 1906 after serving part of a four-year sentence for embezzlement. Out West last week an ex-convict who advertised for a wife, frankly stating that he had served a prison term, received over a thousand bids for his hand.

NIXOLA GREELEY SMITH

I believe Eve married Adam with the idea that under her inspiring influence he might reform. And her daughters have shown an inherited tendency to follow in mother's reforming footsteps ever since.

It is a well-known fact that mothers love their crippled children best, and women show a similar pitying tenderness for the older moral cripple. Not that I think all ex-convicts are moral cripples, by any means. For it takes a far better crook to stay out of Jail than to get in Jail.

But I believe most of us would rather undertake to reform the worst man than to live with the best one and despair of ever attaining his perfection. It is case often the best in woman that attempts the betterment of the worst in man. Yet I sometimes wonder if all the men reformed as their wives would have them the world would not seem to the reformers a sadly dreary place.

An ex-convict gives a woman with the reforming instinct something to vent it on. She can always feel, even if she does nothing more for his moral welfare than to make excellent biscuit, that she exerts an uplifting influence on his life.

It is a very fine and courageous thing for a woman to marry a man who carries the prison stigma or bears the burden of disgrace of any kind if she loves him well enough to do so. But she needs more than the ordinary certainty of her emotions that a woman feels on the verge of matrimony. For she may be called upon to test the truth of the saying that the world is well lost for love. If the love is real and lasting she may never regret facing the social disfavor that attends an ex-convict's wife.

But if she is not more than ordinarily sure of her affection she had better exercise her reforming efforts on a milder case.

WHAT IS MANLY "BEAUTY?"

THE young women of St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Waterbury, Conn., are conducting what they call a "manly beauty" contest, to name the boys whose good looks entitle them to walk in the front ranks of the church organization of cadets. The pastor says a soldier should be as proud of his appearance as of his uniform, so he is not afraid the winners of the beauty contest will be made vain.

Even if they are, their vanity must needs be of short duration, for a brief experience of life and women will teach them that the victories of love are not always, nor indeed generally, to the handsomest.

In no subject is there such difference of opinion among women as to what constitutes beauty in man. When I meet a man with languishing dark eyes, pink cheeks, rosebud mouth and a carefully curled mustache, I have scarcely made up my mind that his type is, on the whole, more objectionable than any other than I hear the voice of some other woman saying in tones of unmeasured admiration: "Have you met Mr. Jones? I think he's perfectly handsome, don't you?"

And I suppose if I were to point out to her my wholly different ideal of manly beauty—providing, of course, I had one—she would feel similarly a sense of incredulous dismay at my lack of taste.

I have a colored maid whose only conception of masculine good looks is what she terms a "nice, fat face." I know many women who consider any man of gigantic dimensions and florid countenance handsome. If I were to formulate my own ideal I would say it was Jack Spratt, provided he was really as thin as his pictures make him out.

"Manly beauty," whatever it consists in, does not win any save very young women. There is a very general feminine belief—which, of course, may be altogether an error—that handsome men are vain and fickle. I can see no particular reason why they should be, for the pretty woman's vanity is fed by its effect on man and the smoothness it lends to her life, but the handsome man soon learns that sterner qualities are required of him if he would win any save a silly woman's permanent regard.

DOES YOURS?

All first-class restaurants, hotels and boarding houses serve Mrs. Rose's Mexican Chili Sauce; if yours don't have them, get it at wholesale or retail groceries everywhere; mighty good on meats and vegetables, and oysters or fish are not fit to eat without it. ASK for it.

GRAND-LEADER

The Neglected River.

From the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

The great Mississippi Valley at present climbs mountains to send its produce abroad, and, turning about, climbs them over again to bring what it needs back to its people. And all the time the great rivers are falling gently from its remote corners offering to take away almost free of cost and to return by the way of the least possible grade. We of the valley are climbing uphill both ways, and the burden is heavy. Give us the deep waters and we will have virtually abolished steep and tortuous paths and follow with instead of against the laws of nature.

Memphis is to speak upon this great question in a few days so loud that the whole world will hear. May it be that the result will take this uphill burden from off the shoulders of the people of the valley.

An Optimist.

"Papa, what is an optimist?"

"Oh, most any man on his way to a horse race."—Houston Post.

A Demonstrator.

"This," said the shopman, "is a most wonderful hair renewer. It is our own preparation."

"Well, give me a bottle," said the bald-headed man. "But, I say, come to think of it, why don't you use it? You're pretty bald yourself."

"I can't use it. You see, I'm the 'Before Using' example. The 'After Using' example is out at lunch. You should see him."—Tit-Bits.

The Inducement.

"The congregation paid up every cent of my back salary today," announced the village minister.

"How in the world did they happen to do that?" queried his astonished wife.

"I announced from the pulpit," explained the good man, "that unless I got it I would not be able to take the three months' vacation I had planned."—Chicago News.

Encouraging.

"I'm afraid," said the soubrette, "that I'll not be able to appear tonight. I have a sore throat."

"Don't let that worry you, dear," replied the prima donna. "Nothing could happen to your throat that wouldn't help your singing."—Chicago Record-Herald.

ATTELL AND SULLIVAN REST UP FOR FIGHT IN ALTON TOMORROW, BOTH MEN BEING IN GOOD SHAPE FOR BATTLE.

PHILADELPHIA TEAMS ENGAGE BROWNS AND CARDINALS, ATHLETICS SERIES WITH FORMER BEING VERY IMPORTANT AND MAY SETTLE RACE

BROWNS MAKING AMERICAN LEAGUE HISTORY IN FIGHT AGAINST LEADING TEAMS

Cardinals Start in Today to Wind Up the Season at Home —Hedges Goes East to See if He Can Help Along Some Trades That Are Being Discussed.

TODAY in Philadelphia the Browns are making some baseball history. Fresh from their defeat yesterday of the Clevelands, who they have effectually put out of the American League race, the tribe of McAleer goes up against the league leaders with confidence. McAleer expects to get better than an even break with the Athletics and pass New York, just as yesterday's victory put the Browns ahead of the Bostons.

In the meantime the Cardinals will be playing here at home with the Philadelphia Nationals, but the local fans will find the game in the East of the greatest interest. President Hedges of the Browns left yesterday to stay with the Browns on the final trip and help along, if possible, the trades for Hemphill et al., which are expected to take place.

A rumor is current with the arrival of the Phillies that Manager McCloskey is about to trade Arthur Hostetter for "Kitty" Bransfield. Judging from Hostetter's work this season it would seem that he would be the last man that McCloskey would rid himself of. Bransfield's hitting would greatly strengthen the Cardinals, but there is doubt whether in his old days Bransfield can outhit Hostetter. Hostetter is more and more displaying his value to the Cardinals by the way he is substituting behind the bat. Marshall and Noonan are unable to work because of injured hands and Hostetter's work has yet to receive a complaint.

The American League Race.

But to get back to the situation in the American League. While conditions favor the Athletics in the remarkable pennant race now within two weeks of its end, there is no sign of weakening on the part of the contenders—the Detroit Tigers, the Chicago White Sox and their staunch and true admirers.

All hands offer similar arguments in favor of their chances. The Western fans think the Athletics will not be able to withstand the terrible onslaught of the Western clubs on the present trip, while the Tigers and the Sox expect to gain ground at the expenses of the Highlanders, the Nationals and the McGuireites of Boston. The Philadelphians were surprised and somewhat grieved by the results of their recent games with the Eastern clubs. Judging by this experience those who expect to see some of the world's championship games played in the Quaker City look to see the Eastern teams break up the attack of the Tigers and the Sox, leaving the field clear for the Athletics.

To Philadelphians the figures for the remainder of the season look good. Beginning with Friday the Athletics have to play 14 games—four each with St. Louis and Detroit and three each with Chicago and Cleveland. When they encountered the same clubs on their last whirl they won 13 and lost 3 games.

Assuming they are equally successful in the present series, they will win 11 of the 14, but if they do not do quite so well as that their pennant chances will not be seriously endangered, for the reason that both New York and Boston have shown marked improvement in their play during the last six weeks and may be expected to toss the contenders when they least expect it.

How Quakers Figure It.

The Philadelphia idea is that in their desperation to remain near the front both Chicago and Detroit have been working their best pitchers out of turn—giving them more to do than they are really capable of. Toward the end the unusual strain upon the pitching talent will begin to tell; in fact, it is already beginning to tell on all of the stars save Wild Bill Donovan, who probably knows more about husbanding his resources than any pitcher in either league.

Walsh, the great twirler of the Chicagos, has been working overtime. He was worked twice in three days against the Athletics in Chicago, and though he won the first game all right, he was easily beaten by Waddell in the third game. Under the circumstances no pitcher could have won against the Rueben, who shut out the Sox, but it would have been better for Walsh if he had been reserved for another day.

It is true Manager Mack has been compelled to make strenuous use of his own pitchers, due to the number of double-headers and tie games the Athletics have had during the last few weeks. But from now on until they go to Washington at the end of the season they have but three double-headers at home, and it will be possible to get the pitchers working in their regular order.

The "Past Performances."

In computing the chances of the Athletics, experts in the Quaker City have figured that by Sept. 27 Connie Mack's team will have the pennant cinched. This computation was based on previous performances. There has been no reversal of form to date.

"It is in the dope," says one authority, "that unless the unforeseen happens Connie Mack and his men will be open for congratulations on the morning of Sept. 28."

Charley Comiskey, president of the White Sox, the Old Roman of baseball, cannot see the Quaker City arguments or figures. "We must still be counted in the fight," says he. "We are depending on the teams of the West giving the Athletics just as tough a battle as they have given the White Sox. Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis and Chicago will win many a game from Connie Mack's gang, and we hope the White Sox will win enough from Detroit, Boston, New York, Philadelphia and Washington to give us the final victory.

"The Athletics should be far ahead of us by this time after the long stretch of games with the Eastern second-division teams. Now they must face the tough propositions from the West. If they could not gain on us, isn't it likely that we will gain on them with the conditions reversed and the Athletics playing the first-division clubs while we play Boston, New York and Washington?

"I'm proud of my team; there isn't a quitter on it. They're just as sure as can be that they are going to be champions of the world for another year, and confidence is half the battle."

FULLERTON BUSY BOOKING GAMES

W. U.'s Schedule Beginning to Take Shape and Some Good Struggles in Prospect.

If Washington succeeds in arranging a game with St. Louis U., as now appears probable, the myrtle and maroon team, after all, will have a very attractive schedule for the season. And Manager Fullerton is entitled to much credit for the manner in which he has worked, under difficulties, to give the Pikeway school an interesting football program.

Yesterday Cochems of St. Louis U. and Fullerton got together and discussed a season's date in the friendliest of manners, and while nothing definite was decided, W. U. showed an inclination to accept Nov. 2, if it could arrange to call off its game with James Millikin for that date.

The second of November is the ideal date for the two schools to get together, as both will be on edge, both well coached and both practically playing their first big game of the season at that time. Likewise it would be a splendid date for drawing a crowd, which fact both managers constantly have in sight.

WOMEN'S TENNIS MATCH SATURDAY

Best Players in the City Will Work for the Post-Dispatch Trophy Cup.

The third annual city tennis tournament for women is scheduled to open tomorrow morning on the Triple A. courts, but the fact that Miss Isabel Hull, the manager of the tourney has been unable on account of sickness in the family, to attend to arrangements for the past week, may result in its postponement for a few days.

The past fortnight has witnessed the daily practising on the Triple A. courts of nearly all of the entrants in the championship, and it is certain that the class of tennis which will feature the play this year will be far superior to anything ever before witnessed on the local courts.

Mrs. Clarke, who has won the Post-Dispatch Cup for two years and if she captures the tournament this year will be entitled to the permanent possession of the trophy, has been out regularly on the courts, as have also Miss Garnasche, runner up for the last two years; Mrs. Entz, holder of the State title, and nearly all of the younger players who performed so cleverly in Class B of the July tournament.

Play is to commence in the singles only tomorrow, and the opening sets in the doubles are set for Monday. The tournament will continue all through next week and the final matches will be contested Saturday afternoon, Sept. 28. No mixed doubles are scheduled for this tournament.

ENGLISH GOLFER MAKES A RECORD DRIVE OF 381 YARDS

Shot is Over Level Ground With a Slight Following Wind.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—What is believed to be a record drive was made on the Beckenham Golf Club's course by W. H. Horne, the local professional. Horne was playing against Mr. Potter, a member of the club, and the shot was made over level ground. Potter marked the shot where the ball stopped and the drive was subsequently measured and found to be 381 yards in length. A bunker situated 250 yards from tee was cleared by the shot on the fly. There was a slight following wind. The longest authenticated drive prior to this accepted here was made by Edward Blackwell in 1892, when, with a gutta percha ball, he drove 366 yards from the seventeenth tee at St. Andrews.

Rube Waddell is more obstinate than eccentric. The way he resists the temptation to go fishing is too sane to be like Reuben.

SULLIVAN GOES TO ALTON IN AN AUTO TO DECIDE UPON THE REFEREE

HE AND ATTELL IN SHAPE FOR FIGHT SATURDAY AFTERNOON AND GIVE UP HARD TRAINING TO REST NOW UNTIL BATTLE BEGINS.

It is expected that by nightfall today some capable man will be named to act as referee over the Attell-Sullivan fight which takes place on the bluffs in Alton, Ill., tomorrow afternoon. Everything in connection with the fight has been definitely arranged with the exception of naming the referee, and this was delayed, owing to the principals failing to agree on the names suggested up to date.

So far it is almost certain that either Harry Sharpe or Bob Douglass will be the third man in the ring, with the chances seemingly in favor of the former.

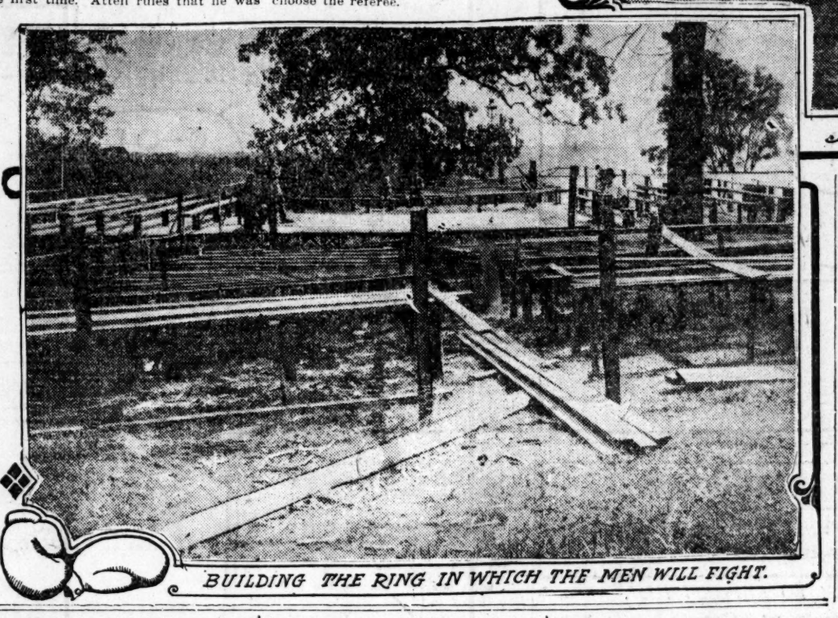

Attell has stout objection to Sharpe acting as referee on account of the latter acting in like capacity when the champion and Tommy met in the ring the first time. Attell rules that he was given the worst of the decision by Sharpe.

Douglass has been mentioned several times to referee, but it is hardly likely that he will do so should he even be agreed upon by both fighters. Douglass is running the show, besides being the club's professor, and there is no denying the fact that he would probably put himself in a bad light were he to take the job.

With the sole and express intention of making the selection for the third man, Tommy Sullivan, who has been training at Roth's Grove in the county, took his departure this morning in an automobile, accompanied by his manager, Jack Sullivan, and a retinue of trainers, for Alton. Once there they will meet in open confab with the Attell party and choose the referee.

TENNIS MATCHES APPROACH FINALS

Lehman Boys Meet Gamble and Wear for Title in Doubles; Singles Unfinished.

Tennis at the Triple A grounds today continues in its interest, as only one day remains before the play in the finals for the city championship takes place, Saturday.

The singles today are in the semi-finals; the doubles in the semi-finals were completed yesterday. M. D. Macdonald and Gus Serrano have each won a set in their match and the victor must face Fritz Lehmann. The winner of the Lehmann and McDonald match will play the winner of the Drummond Jones and M. Smith match for the semi-finals.

Yesterday Lehmann and Lehmann defeated Smith and Charles by scores of 6—3, 6—5 and 6—2. Gamble and Wear defeated Jones and Whittemore, 6—4 and 9—7.

Gamble and Wear will meet Lehmann and Lehmann in the finals in the doubles Saturday, and as Fritz Lehmann is a likely winner of the singles today, this will put him in a hard position to fill, but his strength will help him out.

COLLINS WILL FIGHT M. KENNY

"Birdlegs" Collins, the local colored scrapper, is finally down to show what he can do in the fighting line. Monday night, over in Collinsville, Ill., he will fight Milt Kenny a six-round battle and a large number of St. Louisans are going over to see the battle.

The fight will be pulled off in the opera house there, and as a preliminary Johnny Casey and "Kid" Sjolgoz—whoever they are—will oblige in a four-round bout. There will also be a wrestling match and other features. The Chief of Police of Collinsville has promised to be good for the occasion. The affair will be under the auspices of the Madison Athletic Club. It will be necessary to be a member of the club to see the fight, but it is possible for anyone with two dollars to join right here in St. Louis.

SOLD AUTO AND BOUGHT AN EXPENSIVE HORSE

Golf Ball Cost $4300, But Got it Back in One Race.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—When William McKinney sold his automobile and bought Golf Ball he parted with an expensive toy for a good money-maker. Golf Ball cost $4300, but as he won the fifth race at the Gravesend track in a romp yesterday and there was as high as 8 to 5 against him, his new owner won the purchase money on him.

Golf Ball was opposed by a lot of cheap selling platers. This little son of Plaudit-Guttapercha had previously won several good handicaps while in the hands of John E. Madden, but as he had not started in some time and had changed owners, the bookmakers were inclined at first to take liberties with him and offered good odds against his chance. This freedom of spirit played into the hands of McKinney. He knew that the horse had worked extremely well and that he was a mud runner par excellence. Accordingly he scraped together every dollar that he could call his own and made all his friends do likewise. This money they poured into the ring and sent Golf Ball to the post an even-money favorite.

TIGER FOOTBALL SQUAD GETS DOWN TO HARD WORK

Forty Candidates Kick and Run Back Punts Over Rain-Soaked Field.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 20.—The full squad of 40 men reported at University field for football practice yesterday and in spite of the rain. Head Coach Roper got some snappy work from the Tiger candidates. Kicking and running back punts, with other light work, was the order or the day. Capt. "Jim" McCormick, Princeton's big fullback, showed himself to be fully up to his last year's form at punting, and Eddie Harlan, the fast little halfback, did some clever drop kicking.

TURF TO LOSE GREAT ROSEBEN

Davie Johnson's Wonderful Sprinter Dying From Blood Poisoning Caused by Slight Wound.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Roseben, peerless sprinter among the thoroughbreds of America, is dying of blood poisoning. The champion's illness is due to a stone bruise. During his last race over the Sheepshead Bay track, which he won easily, he picked up a stone and this cut and bruised one of his legs so badly that the injured member began to swell. Trainer Frank Weir gave the cut and bruise close attention from the moment it was discovered. At first nothing serious was apprehended and it was thought that he would soon round to under treatment. But alarming symptoms set in on Wednesday and Dr. Sheppard, a veterinary surgeon of Gravesend, was called to prescribe.

In spite of all the care and attention bestowed by the veterinary and the trainer the symptoms of fever increased to such an extent that Dr. Mathewson of Philadelphia, a noted specialist on blood diseases of horses, was called. He diagnosed the case the same as did Dr. Sheppard—blood poison.

"I do not think that Roseben will ever race again," said "Davy" Johnson, his owner. "If he does his cure will be a little short of miraculous. He is fairly shriveled up from fever and pain, and in appearance looks as though he had gone through a fire."

MANUAL'S TEAM HARD AT WORK

Coach Homer Thomas Has Had Training School Squad Out Every Day This Week.

SEVENTEEN MEN IN LINE

First Game Will Be Against East St. Louis High on Fifth of October.

Homer Thomas, the newly acquired coach of Manual Training School's football team, has had the squad out every day this week, working hard on the school campus at Von Versen and Windemere way.

Yesterday 17 men reported for practice, four of them being wearers of the football "M." Allan Wilder, fullback; Miller, tackle; Will, quarterback and Wallin, guard, were the "vets" who appeared. Capt. Ed Lasar will be with the squad in a few days in case he should not pass the examinations for admission to Washington U., which he took last week.

Leonard Martin, end on the team three years ago, has registered, and will be with his old comrades in a few days.

The Second Team.

The second team will furnish Harlan, Goldsmith, Konzelman and Salisbury, all of whom have been showing up well in the preliminary work.

The fourth member of the famous football family of Krutzsches, one of whom played with Central High, one with McKinley and one with Smith, will try for a backfield position.

Sawyer for Center.

Lee Sawyer, from Mercersburg Academy, is a promising candidate for center, while John Lively, formerly of Central, also bids fair to get a job in the line.

School does not open at the training school until Sept. 26, and, as the first game is on Oct. 5, with East St. Louis High, Coach Thomas recognizes the need of early practice. Manual's first interscholastic game is with Smith, on Oct. 12.

Want Football Games.

The Richmond Heights A. C. would like to hear from Rugby teams that play in the 17 and 18-year-old class. For games address John Martin, 1509 Belleview avenue, Richmond Heights. They will play Sunday games only.

TITLE HANGS ON OUTCOME OF LAST 36 HOLES PLAY

Simpson Led for First Day, but Best Stayer Will Win Professional Golf Championship at Normandie Today.

A determined set of golfers started the second day's play in Western Professional Golf championships this morning on the links of the Normandie Club. Each man was more or less disgusted with his exhibition yesterday and was bent on making a better showing today.

It will be the best "stayer" among the field that will capture the first money. Every player with 160 or better for the 36 holes Thursday has a grand chance of leading the field in the grand total and it will be the man that finishes best today among them that will capture the honor.

Bob Simpson, now with the Omaha Country Club, and formerly of St. Louis, who led the field in the first day's play with a card of 153, was out early this morning, debonaire and rollyicky as ever and confident that he would again turn in the low score of the day.

Willie Anderson, the four-time open champion, stood about the first tee watching the men drive off ahead of him, with his usual stolidity and composure and the small gallery that braved the earliness of the hour to watch the opening of the second day's play as a unit picked him as the man Simpson will have to beat today to retain his position as leader. He is but 3 strokes behind the Omaha man and was playing the better golf of the two for the last 18 holes on Thursday. An opening 42 got him off to a bad start.

Will Dow, who carried the hopes of the city golfers in the tournament, fared but moderately well for the first day, turning in a score of 160. He started poorly in the morning with an 81, but finished better with a 79. He was the third man to tee his ball this morning and a low car will put him in the running nicely.

Dave McIntosh of Westward Ho, who was playing the best golf of the day for his last 18 holes, and Fred McLeod, who was consistently good in his play for the day and who were tied yesterday with 155 for second place, both are dangerous men today. Auchterlonie of Glenview, who with a 73-grand golf, was low man in the morning, went to pieces in the afternoon and finished with a 156 for the day, is also a formidable aspirant for the title.

While the golf yesterday was of class considering the high wind that blew, nevertheless the afternoon scores were more or less disappointing, the men with few exceptions faring worse than they did in the morning round. The players were unanimous in charging the greens for the high scores. It was pathetic to see a beautifully executed put go away on account of some unruly tuft of grass that reared its head in the way of the passage of the ball. The onlookers were well recompensed for this in the virulent flow of Scoth-English that would pour forth from the players after such incidents. The play will be superior today for the simple reason that the men are now better acquainted with the peculiarities of the greens and links.

S.S.S. CURES CHRONIC ULCERS
Whenever a sore or ulcer refuses to heal it is because the blood is infected with poisonous germs or some old blood taint which corrupts and pollutes the circulation. Nothing is more trying than a non-healing, chronic old ulcer. The very fact that it resists all external applications, and ordinary treatments, is good reason for alarm, for the same germs which produces cancerous ulcers is back of every old sore, and especially is this true if the trouble be from any inherited taint. Surface treatment cannot reach the trouble—the blood is at fault and must be purified before a cure can be hoped for. In S. S. S. will be found a remedy for sores and ulcers of every kind. It is a perfect blood purifier—one that goes directly into the circulation and promptly cleanses it of all impurities, poisons and taints. The ulcer can never heal while the blood discharges into it the noxious matter with which it is infected, but when S. S. S. has rid the blood of this cause and freshened and built up the circulation the sore will heal naturally, and of its own accord. S. S. S. begins at the bottom and heals the place as it should be healed and makes a permanent and lasting cure. Book on Sores and Ulcers and any special medical advice free to all who write.

Deposed Chairman Asserts There Is Hard Work Needed in Politics.

Chairman Daley of the Democratic City Central Committee denied to a Post-Dispatch reporter Friday the report that Committeeman Thomas J. Ward of the Twenty-first Ward, Andrew Sheridan of the Second and E. E. Guion of the Sixth Ward are to be deposed when the committee meets next Monday.

"We are getting along nicely now," remarked Daley. "If any committeeman wants to quit, however, he can do so. Nobody else is to be fired that I know."

Mr. Daley announced gleefully that former treasurer P. J. Clooney had turned over to Phil Dwyer, the new treasurer, $834 belonging to the committee.

"Clooney balked at first," said Daley, "but he came around all right when matters were made clear to him. We are going to run the committee on business lines and not play any favorites. Every working Democrat will have a voice in the affairs of the party.

Will Work for the Party.

"If the people are dissatisfied with the present committee, they can elect a new one at the primaries next August. Meanwhile we will do everything possible to promote the welfare of the party."

A dozen members of the committee, including Chairman Daley, Secretary Kinney, Treasurer Dwyer, Dr. John H. Simon, Justice of the Peace Miles and W. J. (Boots) Brennan, held a protracted session at headquarters in the Liggett building Thursday afternoon. Politicians who claim to know what transpired there said that Ward, Sheridan and Guion were slated for removal, although summary action was opposed by several of those present.

Michael J. Mulvihill of the Twenty-first Ward, former chairman of the committee, who was deposed during his absence abroad, arrived in New York Thursday and is expected home within the next few days.

Mulvihill Not Worried.

"I am not worried over the action of the Democratic committee in removing me as chairman," said Mr. Mulvihill to a correspondent of the Post-Dispatch in New York. "In all probability I shall retire from politics altogether.

"I worked hard for the Democratic organization in the last campaign and the results showed in the election of our ticket. Some people appear to think there is no work in politics; that they can nominate anybody and the voters will fall into line. No greater mistake could be made. The voters nowadays are voting for whom they please, regardless of leaders, and unless I miss my mark this will be brought home to the leaders before long."

GEN. WHEELER'S DAUGHTERS THREATEN TO REMOVE BODY

Refusal of Government to Permit Confederate Rank on Monument Arouses Alabamans.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Sept. 20.—The refusal of the War Department to allow the Confederate rank of the late Gen. Joe Wheeler to be engraved on the monument over his grave in the Arlington National Cemetery at Washington has caused much indignation in Alabama.

The congressmen and senators of the State will ask Congress to overrule the War Department. The mounment was erected by the daughters of Gen. Wheeler. On one side are two blank lines where it was intended to carve his Confederate rank.

It is said the War Department officials thought it unseemly for the fact that Wheeler was a Confederate General to be displayed on a monument in the National Cemetery.

The Misses Wheeler wanted their father buried in Alabama, but consented to interment in Arlington at the special request of the War Department. It is said that unless Gen. Wheeler's Confederate rank may be inscribed on the monument his daughters will try to have the remains brought to Alabama.

MERRIEST STUDENT OF HIS CLASS COMMITS SUICIDE

While Festivities Are in Progress Amherst College Freshman Cuts His Throat.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 20.—In the height of the students' festivities yesterday, the opening day, at Amherst College, Edwin H. Wright of Adams, N. Y., who reached Amherst Wednesday evening, committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Wright was one of the merriest of the army of students who trooped into chapel yesterday morning. He had suffered from insomnia and a letter written to his father seems to indicate that he feared insanity.

A student heard a gurgling sound in Wright's room and shortly after heard him go down the long flights of stairs and saw him fall headling in the hall at the top of the stairway leading to the street.

Wright had seated himself in a chair by his window, and, with the aid of a mirror, had cut his throat above the larynx, severing the carotid artery.

Phew! Here Comes 1000 Girls Who Want to Wed.

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 20. THE transatlantic liner Baltic, which departed yesterday, may not lower the world's speed record held by the North German Lloyd's Deutschland, but unless something happens to Cupid before the Baltic reaches the port of New York there will be some matrimonial records smashed after the steamer docks.

One thousand young women, described as marriageable, but for some reason unmarried, are aboard the Baltic. Several hundred of the same kind are among the total of 5000 passengers carried on three transatlantic vessels which sailed yesterday.

For some time there has been an exodus of these marriageable young ladies to the United States and Canada. Yesterday's departures, however, broke the record. They don't know just where they're going to find their future husbands, but they're on their way.

STEPS TAKEN FOR REFORM IN GOVERNMENT OF CHINA

Prince Who Was Envoy to St Louis Fair Appointed to Aid Grand Council.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

PEKIN, Sept. 20.—An imperial edict was issued today authorizing Prince Pu-Lun, who was Chinese Envoy at the St. Louis Exposition, and Sun Chi Ani, in co-operating with the Grand Council, to frame regulations for the establishment of a council of deliberation, to aid the Government, "so that the foundation may be laid for a parliament."

The Dowager Empress says that in the establishment of a representative government for China the opinion of all must be considered and though the upper and lower houses are foundations of administrations the throne is unable to establish them in China at present.

Both Chang Chi Tung and Yuan Shi Kai since coming to Pekin on their appointment as grand councillors, have urged the establishment of a constitutional form of government, recalling the fact that this reform has been promised and that China and all the rest of the world expected it to be carried out.

CALVE LANDS IN AMERICA

She is Here for a Long Concert Tour; Soon to Come West.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Mme. Emma Calve yesterday bounded from the Cunarder Pannonia, from Italy, clad in a white serge suit with a whit fox-skin boa and a blue hat ornamented with the breast of a peacock and a brace of pheasant wings.

The singer is here for a long concert tour under the management of John Cort, to begin on Oct. 5 at Bangor, Me. She will visit all the larger cities westward and southward to New Orleans and Mexico City, where she will be the guest of President Diaz. She will also appear in San Jose, Costa Rica, which has a $5,000,000 opera house and unpaved street.

Mme. Calve spent much of her time on the ship in cutting out poper dolls for the children in the steerage. She distributed these with her own hands.

The prima donna during the summer engaged in philanthropic work. As usual, she entertained at different times about 500 shop girls from Paris on her estate, the old Chateau de Cabrieres, near Millau, in the Cevennes.

DISFIGURED BY CARBOLIC

There is a habit among women of using Carbolic Acid for disinfecting purposes and almost daily people lose their lives or else become disfigured through mistaking it for something else.

Carbolic is not only a deadly poison if taken internally, but it will burn through the skin and in many cities is sold as guardedly as cocaine.

Using it is also unnecessary, as there are harmless disinfectants, such as C. N. Disinfectant, which are just as effective for all uses yet absolutely non-poisonous and harmless.

MARKSMEN TO HAVE BIG SHOOT

Men of the First Regiment Will Compete for a Trophy.

A regimental competitive shoot will be given by the First Regiment on the St. Charles range, about the middle of October. A trophy and suitable prizes will be provided, in addition to the marksmanship badges furnished by the War Department.

The shoot was determined upon at a meeting held at the First Regiment Armory, Thursday night, during which arrangements were also completed for the dedication ceremonies of the new armory site, to be held next Sunday morning at Grand and Manchester avenues.

IF YOU LOSE ANYTHING—Advertise it here. It will be returned to you if an honest person finds it. Remarkable recoveries are brought about every day through this column. All druggists receive Want Ads for the Post-Dispatch at office rates.
IF YOU FIND ANYTHING bring it to the Post-Dispatch Lost and Found Bureau, 210-212 North Broadway.

Get a claim check. Have it advertised. Reclaim it if the owner does not.
THE LAW—People who find lost articles are interested in knowing that the State Law (section 8475 to 8480, Revised Statutes of Missouri, 1890) is strict in requiring them to seek the owners through advertisement and otherwise, and that a failure to do so, if same can be proven, involves a severe penalty.

FORCED REMOVAL SALE OF PIANOS SELLING FAST

The fact that our building is to be torn down at once and that we must vacate, coupled with the great reduction in our prices, has caused no little interest in this forced removal sale. Our store is crowded daily with eager buyers, who realize that greater bargains are to be found here than in any store in St. Louis. Remember our new store is not ready and we must sell our entire stock within 15 days, and that we have made a heavy cut in our regular prices in order to do so. This week we are selling:

Used upright pianos as low as..........$100
New upright pianos as low as.......... 137
Piano players as low as................ 110
Square pianos as low as................ 15

We show the largest stock of player pianos in the city, upon which we have made a big reduction in price.

At the rate these bargains are going you must come in now if you want a good selection.

Every instrument marked in plain figures. Easy payments if desired.

SEEKING SUNKEN TREASURE WITH NEW INVENTION

Bottomless Boat Will Be Used in Search for Treasure Ship.

THE HAGUE, Sept. 14.—The latest maritime invention is a submarine for salving wrecks, and it will be used in an attempt to Salve H. M. S. Lutine, which was wrecked off Terschelling Island, on the coast of Holland, in 1799, with $2,500,000 aboard.

"The submarine is fitted with a special internal apparatus," said J. Garner Flood, who will be engaged in the work. "It has regulators by the aid of which the operator can control the pressure of the air inside, and so make it the same as that of the water. The bottom can then be opened with perfect safety, and the wreck examined with ease.

"I have just returned from the wreck, and I think that we shall be successful in our efforts. It is well marked, and is guarded by the local authorities.

"The Lutine now lies right in the center of a number of dangerous sand banks, and some of the operations, which have been frequent in the last century, have been attended with loss of life.

"It is stated that when the vessel went down there was bullion on board to the value of $2,500,000, but so far only $500,000 has been recovered, and we are now going to try to recover the remainder.

"The Lutine now belongs to Lloyd's, and we have already placed the order for the building of the necessary apparatus, so that we shall begin salving operations very shortly. I think they will be successful, and that with the submarine we shall recover all the bullion still remaining in the hold of the ship."

BRIDE AND BRIDEGROOM 75 WHOM SHE WON THROUGH "AD"

JOHN L. WILSON

John L. Wilson, 75 years old, and his bride, who was Martha Ann Nevil, 55, are enjoying their honeymoon. They were married Wednesday.

Mrs. Wilson was one of the candidates for the hand of Charles Rohne, who wanted a widow of 50.

Wilson is a war veteran and healthy for a man of his age. He lived at 3422 Lawton avenue and she at 3428. Although they were separated by a few houses they did not know each other until Wilson advertised that he wanted a wife.

NO ELEVATOR FOR COATLESS

Tenants of Chicago Building Barred if Not Fully Attired.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Because he did not know the rules of the Majestic building, Charles X. Childs suffered humiliation and annoyance, to say nothing of fatigue.

The management of the building recently established a rule that no men should be allowed to ride in the elevators without their coats on. Childs slipped through in some way and got as far as the ninth floor in his shirt sleeves.

In course of time he desired to go back again. He pushed the proper button. The car stopped, the elevator man looked at him through the bars, pulled the elver, and went on without him. When that had happened seven times Childs took to the stairs. After he had reached his floor, eight stories above, he found out all about it.

SCIENCE, CHARITY AND ROMANCE BRINGS THREE WOMEN BEFORE PUBLIC

Mme. Curie, famous as the discover of radium and the first woman elected a professor at the Sorbonne, Paris, has recently printed a criticism of the English Lord Kelvin's attack upon that metal. Madame Curie asserts radium is distinctly a chemical element and that Lord Kelvin's molecular combination theory is mere words.

The Hon. Nan Herbert of England has given the English Theosophical Society a site for a school on her family estate, Old House, Kingwood, Hampshire. Corporal punishment will be unknown to the children who attend there. Mrs. Tingley, the American, is founder of the society.

Mrs. Nora Shelley, granddaughter of a younger brother of the famous poet, is soon to be the bride of Lieut. Fausto Leva of the Italian Navy. The Shelley family preserve many relics of the poet and occupy an enviable position in English society.

Beggar Gives a Grand Ball.

It has been proved that no fewer than 32,000 beggars are at present making a better living in Vienna than ordinary workmen. One notorious family of professional beggars recently gave a grand ball and a concert at a local hotel.

JOHN BROWN'S SON GOES MARCHING ON AT THE AGE OF 84

Descendant of Famous Abolitionist Takes Part in a Walking Match.

SALEM, O., Sept. 14.—"John Brown's body lies moldering in the grave," but his son, Jason Brown, is still a young fellow of 84 and has a reputation as a walker, notwithstanding his white hair and beard. He lives near Akron and he was in Hudson to take part in the old fellows' walking match at the homecoming celebration.

Jason was born in Hudson, where his famous father lived, in 1823. The old homestead still stands, though in a neglected condition.

Jason has an interesting history. He was not at Harper's Ferry, but took an active part in the expeditions into "poor, bleeding Kansas." After the Osawatomie attack in 1856 he was driven a long distance on foot by the Missourians, when the party stopped and made arrangements to string him up because he was the son of the man who had led the fight for the fugitive slaves. They had the rope around his neck, but their plans were changed at the last moment and he was allowed to go free.

Jason says his father came from Kansas to Akron to make arrangements for the Harper's Ferry raid. He resembles his father much in personal appearance. He has always prided himself upon his prowess as a long-distance walker.

BETRAYAL OF MAFIA SECRET COSTS LIFE OF INFORMANT

Man Who Played Falsely Is Dismembered and Burned in Italy.

ROME, Sept. 14.—A crime has been committed at Palermo at the instigation of the notorious Mafia Society.

The society had been engaged in the manufacture of counterfeit banknotes, and it is alleged that a Frenchman, named Henri, who was a member of the society, betrayed some of the secrets and stole a number of the false notes.

At a secret meeting he was formally condemned to death, and the duty of executing the sentence was intrusted to a member named Sacco, who has been arrested.

Sacco states that he killed Henri by stabbing him in the back, and then carried the body to his lodgings, where he dismembered it. The pieces were placed in two boxes which he conveyed to a dark archway under a bridge.

There he poured petroleum over the boxes and set them ablaze. They were not entirely consumed, and it was owing to their discovery that the crime came to light.

More arrests were made and some of the prisoners have already confessed their complicity. They allege that Sacco was helped in the murder by his wife.

Gliding Boat for Warfare.

In describing the wonderful new gliding boat invented by Peter Cooper Hewitt, in the October number of Popular Mechanics, Emmett Campbell Hall says: "The present model of the Hewitt craft weighs 2630 pounds, but a boat of the same power and strength can be made having a weight of but 1500 pounds. Such a boat would carry a weight of 1500 pounds. It is estimated that the craft may carry 60 pounds a horsepower at a speed of 30 miles an hour or even more. The gliding craft can be steered around sharp curves at the highest rate of speed with no loss of equilibrium, but the stern "skids" like the wheels of an automobile at high speed on a sharp curve. One of the most obvious uses to which the new form of craft could be put would be as a torpedo boat, for naval experts assert that it is very difficult to hit with guns, excepting small arms, upon a vessel moving at a speed of more than 30 miles an hour, so that a torpedo boat moving at 60 miles an hour might be regarded as almost immune from harm by gun fire."

See-Saw Target for Big Guns.

One of the most unique targets ever devised is in use at the greatest school of naval gunnery in the world—Whale Island, Portsmouth, England. Here the seamen and coast defense gunners are educated.

The target consists of two dummy warships oscillating on an immense steel beam. This imitates the pitching of a vessel in a heavy sea. At the same time the car on which the target is carried moves back and forth, giving motion in two directions at the same moment. At this elusive target the gunners fire.—From Popular Mechanics for October.

ARCTIC PARTY SAFE BUT SHIP IS LOST IN ICE

Post-Dispatch Receives Authentic Report From Anglo-American Explorers.

WERE REPORTED DEAD

Mikkelson Survey Is Not to Be Abandoned; Dr. Howe Will Come Home.

VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON, instructor in ethnology at Peabody Museum, Harvard, sailed north from Victoria a year ago to join the Anglo-American expedition. His subjoined communication to the Post-Dispatch is the first tidings direct from a member of the expedition since it penetrated the Far North. His message sets at rest the report that Capt. Mikkelson, Ernest de K. Leffingwell, geologist of Chicago University, and their party are lost. Fort MacPherson referred to B. Mr. Stefansson is the most northerly post of the Hudson Bay Co. Mr. Stefansson is homeward bound by way of Victoria.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BY VILHJALMUR STEFANSSON.

YUKON CROSSING, via Ashcroft, Sept. 14.—In reply to the Post-Dispatch's cable, I am anxious to get the facts before the public, as there is evidently a misunderstanding as to the winter's experiences and the present condition of the Anglo-American Arctic exploration expedition.

The chief object of the expedition was to explore Beaufort Sea between Point Barrow and Banks Land. Secondary objects had to do with the geological and ethnographic investigations. I shall take up these heads separately.

The intended base of winter operations was at Banks Land, but early ice stopped the schooner Duchess of Bedford at Flaxman Island. This did not interfere with the sea explorations planned, however, as sled journeys could be made about as advantageously northward from Alaska as westward from Banks Land.

Ice Drift Westward.

Exploring Party Commanders Leffingwell and Mikelson and Mate Stookerson started about the middle of March and went north along longitude 149 west to about 72 degrees 20 minutes north. They carried a 2090.77-foot line, but got no bottom beyond about 164.04 feet off the coast. Theoretically, the ice drift should have been eastward, but they found a continuous westward drift, and the ice was badly broken up after the middle of April. They attempted to go east from the most northern point reached, but drifted west further than headway could be made east. They then traveled south, but for some days drifted about northwest by due west.

Finally opportune westerly winds delayed the drift enough to allow them to make land, and soon they were fast in the ice on Cape Halkett. Next came a continuous westerly drift which came near taking the party into the open sea beyond Barrow. The party reached Flaxman on May 15 with one of their three sleds remaining, six out of fourteen dogs and two days' provisions. They had crossed dozens of open lanes in their boats and camped several times to await the freezing over the lanes.

The party saw numerous seals and two polar bears. One bear and one seal were killed, and any number of the latter could have been secured, but the party was not in need of food.

A similar trip will probably be made next winter by the same men along the international boundary meridian.

On May 17 Leffingwell started forth to do geological work in the Rockies south of Flaxman, and will probably continue it all summer. Mikkelson was occupied in getting the crew off to San Francisco by whalers and providing for the coming winter at Flaxman.

Long Trip on Foot.

I went down the MacKenzie River in August, 1906, to meet the Duchess of Bedford. The schooner failing to arrive, I went East and wintered with an Eskimo family near Cape Brown. During the winter I visited every Eskimo house between Baillie Island and Flaxman Island, covering 2000 miles on foot.

I learned the whereabouts of the schooner early in last March, and got to Flaxman early in April. The schooner had been crushed by the ice soon after the middle of March, and the crew were living on shore near the wreck under command of Surgeon Howe. I stayed with them until early in July, when I went in an Eskimo boat to Coleville delta. I did archaeological work on Jones and neighboring islands.

Late in July I boarded the whaler Belidere, going to Herschel Island, where I continued my archaeological researches until the arrival of Mikkelson, early in August. It was at Herschel that we learned of the mistaken report sent via Hudson Bay Company's MacKenzie steamer regarding the loss of the ice party.

I volunteered to try to reach some telegraph post in Alaska, whence a contradiction of the report could be dispatched. I went to Fort MacPherson by boat, walked over the mountains for six days to reach Bell River, and floated down it alone to Fort Yukon, where I arrived on Sept. 3, 27 days from Herschel Island. Dr. Howe and the others probably will arrive in San Francisco in November.

Fred Nevels, Aged 11, Missing.

Mrs. Kate Nevels of 713 North Ninth street has reported to the police that her 11-year-old son, Fred Nevels, left home Saturday morning and has not returned. The boy was recently released from the Industrial School.

POST-DISPATCH'S RECORD OF MARKETS AND FINANCE

ROGERS MADE ILL BY HEAVY LOSS ON STOCK

He Had to Sacrifice Securities to Meet $40,000,000 Obligations.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. That fully 40 per cent of the fortur of Henry H. Rogers is tied up in the Tidewater Railway project, in which he became involved five or six years ago, is stated positively in Wall Street. Worry over financial arrangements in connection with this enterprise was, it is said, responsible in a measure for Mr. Rogers' breakdown in health last July. The personal obligations he incurred were much in excess of $40,000,000.

It is said that Mr. Rogers has been compelled to sacrifice or pledge a large amount of his holdings in Standard Oil, Consolidated Gas, St. Paul and Union Pacific, and that the heavy liquidation in Amalgamated Copper and the lack of support given the stock in the recent decline is due to the necessity of his raising a large amount of money to meet his obligations.

The hurried return of H. C. Frick from Europe, on Aug. 4, fully two months before he was expected, was due, it is declared, to a summons sent by cable on July 26, the day that Mr. Rogers was stricken. When Mr. Frick returned he became a heavy seller of stocks and this brought about the violent decline in Reading, which caused a sensation at that time.

Harriman Helped Rogers.

In some circles it was pointed out esterday that the increase in the Southern Pacific dividend by Mr. Harriman on Aug. 1 was of great assistance to Mr. Rogers in the liquidation of his stocks.

Wall street recalled that last spring there was a great deal of comment in the financial world over the announcement that H. H. Rogers had been forced to raise $10,000,000 for the Tidewater road on personal notes bearing on their face 6 per cent interest, but actually discounted on a 7-per-cent basis. These personal notes were secured by $20,000,000 of first-mortgage bonds, $10,000,000 of stock and $10,000,000 of interest-paying collateral.

Building Virginia Coal Road.

About five years ago Mr. Rogers undertook to parallel the Norfolk & Western Railroad with a low-grade road which was to tap the rich coal and lumber lands that he had bought up in West Virginia and carry their products to tidewater. The line was to be 443 miles long.

Up to this time about 130 miles have been completed, although much of the grading and tunneling in the remainder has been constructed. The road, when completed, will extend from Deep Water, W. Va., on the Kanawha River, to Sewell's Point, near Norfolk.

The company has an authorized capital stock of $35,000,000, practically all owned by H. H. Rogers, and $33,500,000 5-per-cent first-mortgage bonds, also owned by Mr. Rogers.

It was reported yesterday in Wall street that, in order to relieve Mr. Rogers' embarrassment, J. P. Morgan had taken over 60,000 shares of Union Pacific from Kuhn, Loeb & Co., but owned by Mr. Rogers, and that one of the conditions of the purchase was that E. H. Harriman was to retire from the presidency of the Union Pacific. Mr. Morgan personally authorized the Wall street reporters to deny the story. He declared that his firm had not been accumulating Union Pacific stock.

MAN CHASED DOWN THEATER AISLE DURING A MATINEE

Rushed Through Orchestra Part and Into Women's Dressing Room.

Verr Martin and Clifford Young, two negroes, who were captured by Detectives Lally and Hannigan, after one had been chased down the aisle of the Garrick Theater, in the midst of a performance Thursday, are held at the Four Courts, pending an investigation.

The detectives were standing near Sixth and Chestnut streets Thursday, when they saw the two negroes come out of a pawnshop, one carrying a large bundle. The detectives stopped the pair to investigate the package. While Lally was untying the bundle Martin broke away, ran east on Chestnut street and dashed into the Garrick Theater.

Past the astonished doorkeeper and into the main aisle he rushed, with Detective Lally in close pursuit. He rushed to the orchestra, where he dived through a stage door into a dressing room occupied by several actresses, who made a hasty exit.

Lally captured the negro.

The bundle which caused the trouble was found to contain two shoes, both for the right foot.

TEACHER IS ARRESTED IN SCHOOL ROOM AT LEBANON

William Creed Pleads Guilty and Is Fined for Slapping Boy.

Arrested while teaching school by Constable Barney Williams of East St. Louis, William Creed, a teacher at Lebanon, entered a plea of guilty in Justice Moussette's court, East St. Louis, on a charge of slapping a former pupil. He was fined $5 and costs Thursday.

Ralph Howard, 16 years old, of Lebanon, was the complaining witness. Testimony showed that Tuesday Howard and three other boys met the teacher on the street in Lebanon and a few angry words resulted in Creed slapping Howard.

Creed testified that he feared the four boys would attack him.

East St. Louis News

Attorney William Vandeventer has received word that his brother, A. F. Vandeventer, formerly Speaker of the House of Representatives in Arkansas, has been elected to the Legislature of Oklahoma at the recent election. He has visited East St. Louis several times within the last two years.

In the county tennis tournament at the Alta Sita courts, the East St. Louis champions, Coombs and Watson, will play Roemeiser and Smith of Belleville Saturday at 2:30 p. m. in doubles. Coombs will then play Watson in singles. Sunday at 2 p. m. Watkins and Clucas of East St. Louis will play Wehrle and Werhle of Belleville in doubles. Following this the winner of the Coombs-Watson match will play Fox in singles.

The funeral of Thomas Walsh, 55 years old, who died Wednesday night at St. Mary's Hospital of blood poison resulting from crushing his fingers in a trip-hammer while at work at the Elliott Frog and Switch plant 10 days ago, will be held Sunday at 2 p. m. from the family residence, 627 Piggott avenue, to Mount Carmel Cemetery. He is survived by his wife and three children.

John Scanlon, 28 years old, of Chrystal City, Mo., died Thursday night at St. Mary's Hospital from injuries received last Friday night by being crushed by a street car. While sitting on a railing on the Eads Bridge approach, a State street owl car struck him and crushed both his legs between the car and railing. An inquest will be held Friday afternoon. His brother from Chrystal City has arrived in East St. Louis and will complete the funeral arrangements.

The Daughters of Erin will hold a meeting in St. Patrick's School Hall Friday night to initiate a class of candidates.

The Elks' Lodge will meet Friday night at the Elks' Club to arrange for attending the funeral of John S. Bratton.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Chapman of 102 North Fifth street have returned from Saratoga, N. Y., where they attended the Old Soldiers' reunion.

The body of William Leeper, who died Tuesday morning from injuries received Monday night, when he was run over by a train in the Terminal railroad yards, will be taken to Versailles, Ill., Friday afternoon for burial. His sister, Mrs. William McNiel of Versailles, will accompany the body.

On account of the funeral of John S. Bratton, the golf tournament to have been held Saturday afternoon at East Lansdowne by the Lansdowne Golf Club has been postponed until next Saturday.

A nick-nack shower will be given Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Elsie Whitbread, 626 North Tenth street, in honor of Miss Lyda McLean, who will be married Oct. 2 to Henry Timberlake. Friends of Miss McLean were entertained Thursday by her sister, Mrs. M. D. Baker, at her home, 617 North Thirteenth street. The wedding will be held Oct. 2 at 6 p. m., at the home of the bride's parents, Capt. and Mrs. John J. McLean, 530 North Tenth street. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. J. F. Harmon, pastor of the First M. E. Church. Following a wedding supper at the bride's home, they will depart on a wedding trip to Eastern cities. Mr. Timberlake is stock agent for the Illinois Central Railroad at the National Stockyards.

BRATTON FUNERAL SATURDAY

The funeral of John S. Bratton will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. from the Bratton home, 2100 State street, East St. Louis.

The horse and mule market of East St. Louis will be closed Saturday afternoon so the commission men there may attend the funeral. The Commercial Club of East St. Louis appointed a committee Friday to attend the funeral and the Elks lodge will do the same. The services will be conducted by Rev. U. E. Archibald, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

BOARD DROPS POLICEMAN OLLIE ROBERTS ACCUSED

He Was Acquitted of Her Charge, but Is Not Recommissioned.

Policeman Patrick J. Nolan of the Deer Street Station, who has been dropped from the rolls, was the only policeman against whom Ollie Roberts testified in the police graft trials who was acquitted. His commission expired last month. Policemen John J. Dooling and Patrick White of the Carr Street Station also failed to be recommissioned.

The following named patrolmen were re-commissioned Thursday as such: John P. Hannegan, John J. Kilker, John T. Coakley, Jerre Sullivan, David O'Brien, Harry McLaughlin and Joseph Byrne of Chief of Detectives Smith's staff; Claude Hayhurst, Deer Street; Albert Stangler, William Wendl, Calvin J. White and William P. Watts, headquarters; Henry Amelung and George A. Ellenberger, Wyoming Street.

The following patrolmen were ordered re-examined by the Mental Board: Jas. W. Alexander, John B. Brandt, Daniel Cale, Isaac N. Craig, Edward Eichorn, John G. Ford, Thomas W. Fogarty, John H. Fehling, Edward Herr, Edward F. Herndon, John Heidecker, Frank Krekeler, John J. Maloney, Edward McCullough, John McAllister, John F. Nicolay, Edward Steinberg, Nicholas Seeger, William Stiften, Daniel Slattery, Gustave Severin, Thomas Ward, Richard M. Hunter, William M. Tucker, Barney Verheyen, Jerre Barton, Patrick Dunn, Louis Eichelberger, James Foristel, John F. Gorman, Julius A. Kunz, Chris G. Laber, James Mulligan, Anthony J. Reilly and Joseph Stutte.

JUDGE REJECTS HIS PLEA THAT WIFE SLAPPED FIRST

John Newman Fined $10 for Hitting Spouse Despite Twenty Blows He Got.

Justice Kleiber in the Wyoming Street Police Court Friday decided that a man has no right to slap his wife on the back in bed merely because his stepdaughter permits water to spill out of the family icebox.

John Newman of 3856 Texas avenue was fined $10 on the complaint of Mrs. Augusta Newman and her daughter, Miss Annie Bleckmore. Newman found water dripping from the icebox in his kitchen Thursday evening. His stepdaughter was looking on and he chided her for negligence.

She told him to "go boss his own children." Mrs. Newman championed her daughter's side of the argument. There was a lull in the war until Mr. and Mrs. Newman went to bed at 11:30, when it broke out again, according to the testimony, continuing until 3 a. m., Friday. Then a policemen enforced peace, after Newman had slapped his wife. His defense was that she slapped him "twenty times first."

TRUST CO. BUYS STOCK OF RIVAL

Mississippi Valley Gets More of Lincoln Trust Securities Cheap.

Both the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. and the Commonwealth Trust Co. are still negotiating for the purchase of the Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co.

The report was current among brokers Friday that the Missouri-Lincoln would probably pass to the control of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., as that institution is said to have offered more favorable terms than the Commonwealth company.

The Francis Commission Co., which is represented in the directorate of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. by its president, D. R. Francis, bought 45 shares of Missouri-Lincoln on the Stock Exchange today at $94.50.

This is $6 less than the last previous quotation for the stock.

None of the officials of the Commonwealth, Missouri-Lincoln or Mississippi Valley Trust Co. will discuss the pending negotiations.

BRIDE DOES THE TALKING AT MARRIAGE TO CHINESE

Miss Grace Martin of Sedalia Becomes Wife of Queueless Detroit Laundryman.

Mar Yung, 43 years old, a queueless Chinese laundryman of Detroit, Mich., and Miss Grace Martin, 34, a white woman, living at Sedalia, Mo., left East St. Louis immediately after they were married by Justice Driscoll Thursday afternoon. They boarded a train for Detroit, where they will live.

They were refused a marriage license in Belleville by County Clerk Miller on account of their different nationalities, but Deputy License Clerk Robert Smith of East St. Louis issued the license without question.

This is the ninth marriage of a white girl to a Chinaman within the last year in East St. Louis.

Yung wore American clothes, but spoke only a few words of the language. The bride did most of the talking and announced that her husband thought that Americans were all right, but they were too inquisitive. She refused to tell where they became acquainted or how they kept up their courtship.

N. Y. STOCKS AGAIN HIGHER; SHOW ACTIVITY

Penna. the Only Prominent Rail That Had a Lower Opening.

INDUSTRIALS STRONG

In the Rail List Hill and Harriman Stocks Were Leaders.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—10 a. m.—With a generally improved tone and a higher opening in London, the general list was strong and active, opening at ¼ to 1⅜ points higher than Thursday's closing.

Pennsylvania was the only laggard among the rails, losing ¼ at the opening.

The Harriman Pacifics each opened ½ higher on active trading, especially in Union Pacific, which it was reported would meet support around 133.

The Hill stocks were to be, apparently, the feature for the day. Great Northern opened strong, 1⅜ over Thursday's closing price, and in active trading held this higher figure in the first half hour's trading.

Northern Pacific, equally active, but not on so great an advance at the opening, proved its strength with no early losses.

Atchison and St. Paul, which had fractional opening gains, made advances, amounting to 1 point over Thursday's final in the early trading.

New York Central, inactive, opened ¼ higher and by expert market opinion was slated for further gains today.

Industrials were again strong, the advances registering ⅛ to ¾ over the close of the preceding day. As on Thursday, Amalgamated and Anaconda were the features having the highest gains.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20, 12:30 p. m.—The volume of business in the morning and forenoon hours of today's session was somewhat under that of yesterday, although there was considerable activity in leading industrials and rails. Steels, Coppers and Smelters were the features on the industrial side, all of them having slight recessions from their openings.

Among the leading rail stocks the recessions were more marked, Great Northern and Northern Pacific having declines of ⅝@¾.

Atchison showed a fractional gain and St. Paul, at noon, showed a half point drop from its high for the morning.

Very active, Reading held its own, as also did the other leading coalers.

On rather restricted transactions the Harriman Pacifics were unchanged from their opening at noon.

Baby Found in the Weeds.

A 2-months-old baby was found in the weeds at Macklind avenue and Market street car tracks by Private Watchman Fred D. Marshall. The baby was taken to the Bethesda Orphans' Home.

ADVANCE OF TWO CENTS SCORED IN WHEAT FUTURES

Preponderance of Bullish Features Caused Excited Short Covering.

CORN SYMPATHETIC

Soft Winter Wheat Sells at $1 for First Time This Season.

There was feverish buying of local wheat futures at Friday's opening and throughout the early trading, and though the market quieted down later, and prices moved slowly, the advance was well sustained and the close was 1⅜c to 2⅜c higher for the day. Liverpool cables closed 1½d to 2d higher on spot wheat and 1⅞d to 2d higher on the futures. Antwerp wheat closed ⅝c to 1¼c higher, Berlin wheat 2¼c higher, Budapest wheat ⅝c lower, and Paris closed 1c to 1½c higher on wheat and 1¼c to 2c higher on flour. Argentine shipments of wheat were 248,000 bu, against 424,000 bu last week and 696,000 bu a year ago. The visible supply of wheat in the chief ports of Argentine is 552,000 bu, against 736,000 bu last week and 880,000 bu a year ago. The Argentine wheat market is firm, with prices advancing on the small supplies. There is a fair demand and arrivals from the interior are nil.

Killing frosts are predicted for a large part of Western Canada and fully 50 per cent of the crop in the provinces is said to be still standing. Light frosts are also predicted for Nortnern Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas and the heavy rains and low temperatures in these districts continue. Very little threshing is being done, and receipts of spring wheat continue very small, stocks still rapidly decreasing, and very little spring wheat is said to be back. The export demand was enormous. Practically all wheat offered over night was accepted by the Continent and United Kingdom and the wheat not accepted Thursday was being taken today at a 3-cent advance. Eastern exporters were reported to have bought fully 1,000,000 bu of future wheat at interior markets against sales for export, and there were numerous reports of large c. i. f. sales of Manitoba, durum and hard winter wheat. The United Kingdom was reported as buying Manitoba wheat c. i. f. as high as $1.20½, Australian $1.21½c, and Indian at $1.18. Late advices said that New York alone worked fully 100 loads of wheat today.

The sharply higher cables, based on damage reports from India and Australia and the small Argentine shipments, light receipts, liberal shipments and steadily decreasing stocks at the local market, the unfavorable crop conditions in the Northwest and especially Canada, and the very large export demand, caused heavy buying at the start. The opening was a full cent higher, and an advance of another cent was scored in a short time. After this the market turned quiet, and though prices were well sustained, the late trading was light, and the range narrow. There were some long profit-taking sales near the close, and though offerings were well taken by a good commission house demand, a fractional sag from the high point occurred. September wheat opened 2c higher at 93½c, and though no further sales were made, that option closed with bids at 94¼c. December wheat opened 1c to 1¼c higher at 98c, sold repeatedly at 97⅞c, was bid up to 99⅛c, sold at 99c, fluctuated between 99c and 99⅛@¼c, sagged to 98⅝c@¾c, and closed at 98⅜c. May wheat opened 1¼c higher at 105⅛c, advanced to 106c, sagged to 105⅝c, back to 106, fluctuated between 105⅞c and 106⅛c, and closed at 105⅜c.

Offerings of cash wheat were meager, the demand very strong, and prices sharply higher. A car of soft red winter wheat sold at a dollar today, this being the highest sale this season. The car was sold by the Sender Commission Co. to the Braun-Lange Commission Co., and was shipped by Wm. Durbray of Augbin, Mo.

Total receipts of wheat at all Western primary markets were 894,068 bu, against 1,039,946 bu last year, and shipments were 640,204 bu, against 612,000 bu last year. Local receipts of wheat were 63,298 bu, against 55,871 bu last year, and shipments were 94,850 bu. Clearances of wheat and flour for the day were 219,000 bu.

Corn was affected by practically the same features that governed wheat. Official predictions of frost for many parts of the corn belt were considered very serious, as warm weather is needed for quite a while for even a fair crop. This and the falling off in receipts, good foreign demand, strength in other markets and advances of ¼d in Liverpool spot wheat and ⅜d in the futures there caused liberal short covering, under which prices advanced 1⅜c to 1⅞c early in the day. The late market was quiet, and prices sagged slightly, but the close was 1⅜c to 1¼c higher for the day. Argentine corn shipments were 1,828,000 bu, against 1,747,000 bu last week and 2,762,000 bu a year ago.

The cash corn market was quiet and prices somewhat firmer. Primary receipts of corn were 768,150 bu, against 548,380 bu last year, and shipments were 494,310 bu, against 316,000 bu last year. Local receipts of corn were 66,450 bu, against 71,500 bu last year and shipments were 62,810 bu. Corn clearances were 73,000 bu.

Oats were quiet and few sales were made, but the tone, influenced by the unfavorable weather and strength in other grains, was strong. The trading was light and the close ⅝c to 1c higher for the day.

Oats were in good cash demand at firm prices. Primary receipts of oats were 738,880 bu, against 532,860 bu last year, and shipments were 389,869 bu, against 339,000 bu last year. Local receipts of oats were 104,000 bu, against 80,000 bu last year and shipments were 78,960 bu. Oats clearances were 10,000 bu.

Following is the Modern Miller crop outlook: In several of the soft winter wheat States the weevil are reported in farmers' holdings, and this, it is expected, will start the marketing of that description to some extent. Hard winter wheat farmers are holding for higher prices. Fall plowing is about completed over a large area and seeding will begin about Oct. 1.

Minneapolis stocks decreased 850,000 bu for the week. Following are the Northwestern car lots: Minneapolis, 197, against 337 last year; Duluth, 254, against 301 last year; Winnipeg, 49, against 395 last year.

FLOUR—Receipts were 4370 bbls.; shipments, 8735 bbls. Quote soft winter flour, patents, $4.30@4.60; straight, $4.20@4.30; extra fancy, $4@4.10, in wood; low to medium grades, in jute, $2.90@3.20; hard jute sacks, patents, $4.25@4.40; straight at $4@4.10; first clears, $3.20@3.50; second clears, $3@3.15; low grade at $2.70@2.90; spring patents, $4.90@5 in jute.

HAY—Receipts, 665 tons local and 240 tons through; shipments, 265 tons. Quote old timothy hay, choice, $21@21.50; No. 1, $18@19; No. 2, $13@14; No. 3, $9@11; new timothy hay, choice, $17@18; No. 1, $15@16.50; No. 2, $12@13; clover hay, old or new, choice, $15; No. 1, $12@14; choice mixed, $16@16.50; No. 1 mixed, $14.50@15; No. 2 clover mixed, $12@15; prairie hay, choice, $11; No. 1, $10.50; No. 2, $9.50; receipts light and demand good.

To Double Life of Umbrellas.

The usual way of coming in out of the rain is to place the umbrella in the rack or corner with the handle upward. This allows the water to run down and remain a long time in the metal that holds the ribs together, which will rust the joints and rot the fabric. If the handle is placed downward instead of upward the water will run away from this point first and the whole top will dry quicker.

LIVESTOCK.

Receipts—Cattle, 4000; hogs, 5000; sheep, 1800; horses and mules, 200.

CATTLE—The supply today was about evenly divided between the native and Southern divisions, but most of the natives were through consignments, having but a nominal number on sale. Three loads of Western steers sold readily at steady prices; the cow and heifer trade was dull, but prices were about like yesterday. The Southern supply was mostly calves, part of which had been forwarded, and the bulk of them were thin and half fat kinds that sold very slowly at lower prices, but the good kinds sold readily at steady values.

HOGS—The supply today was 1900 less than last Friday and 700 larger than the corresponding day last year. The quality was pretty fair, but trading was slow at 5c to 10c lower prices. Tops sold at $6.52½ for 204 pounds weight, and bulk of the supply brought $6.20 to $6.40.

FINANCIAL.

Messrs. George H. Burr & Co., commercial paper brokers, 304-5-6 Security Bldg., report local money: Indorsed bills receivable 4 to 6 months, 6½ per cent; high-grade and single-name paper, 4 to 6 months, 6½ to 7 per cent; other names, not so well known, 6¾ to 7 per cent on first-class security.

Call money on the New York Exchange opened Friday at 3¼ per cent, and was quoted later at 3 per cent.

Local bank clearings and balances—Clearings for Friday, $10,342,602; last week, $10,424,601; balances for today, $604,807; last week, $1,088,178. Decrease, clearings, $82,069; decrease balances, $483,371.

High-grade names on three and four months' paper are being accepted by St. Louis banks at 6 to 6½ per cent. Six months' paper is in pretty fair demand just now, but the financial institutions show no eagerness to grant extensions of credits for this length of time at less than 6¼ to 7 per cent. Demand funds are, as usual, quite plentiful, and the right parties have no difficulty in securing all desired accommodations of this character at 6 to 6¼ per cent. Representatives of leading note-brokerage houses say the St. Louis banks are not taking discount bills of outside firms very generally, sales during the past week having been quite light.

Stocks selling ex-dividend Friday, as announced by Chairman Rein on the Stock Exchange in the forenoon, are: Missouri-Lincoln, 1¼ per cent, quarterly; Bank of Commerce, 4 per cent, quarterly; Mechanics-American National, 4 per cent, quarterly; Jefferson Bank, Hydraulic Pressed Brick Co. and the Wagner Electric Co.

MO.-LINCOLN TRUST STOCK SELLS LOWER

Demand Is Restricted in All Lines and Offerings Generally Steady.

BOND LIST QUIET

United Railways Pfd. Steady at Yesterday's Closing Quotation.

Missouri-Lincoln monopolized most attention at the morning session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange.

The sales were all for cash, and sold at a decline of 3½ points from the preceding day.

United Railways pfd. on small offerings was steady at 63¼.

Trading in all the issues was dull, the only activity shown being in bid and asked.

The trading was exceedingly limited at the second session of the St. Louis Stock Exchange Friday. The transactions were confined to four sales, two of which were in Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co.

This stock, which was ex-divided, sold 1 point lower than in the forenoon, the last quotation being at 92. United Railways preferred was in demand at 63⅜, with 64¼ asked.

LEGAL NOTICES.

LEGAL NOTICE.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19, 1907.

Whereas, on the first day of February, 1906, John Morton duly executed and delivered to the undersigned his certain promissory note for thirteen thousand four hundred and fifty-three dollars and ninety-six cents ($13,453.96), payable on demand, with interest at the rate of six per cent (6 per cent) per annum from date thereof, which said note was endorsed on the back thereof by John W. Harrison; and,

Whereas, said note was collaterally secured by said John Morton and John W. Harrison, pledging and delivering to the undersigned certificates evidencing thirty thousand (30,000) shares of the capital stock of the Mercantile Metal Milling Co., of the par value of one dollar ($1) each, under an agreement entered into at the time that said stock was so pledged that said stock might be sold either at public or private sale by the undersigned in the event of default in the payment of the said promissory note on demand; and,

Whereas, said John Morton and said John W. Harrison have defaulted in the payment of said promissory note and the undersigned has duly demanded of them the payment thereof, and the said note, with interest at the rate of six per cent (6 per cent) per annum since the first day of February, 1906, still remains due and unpaid;

Now, therefore, the Missouri-Lincoln Trust Co., the undersigned, hereby give notice that it will publicly sell to the highest bidder for cash the aforesaid thirty thousand (30,000) shares of the capital stock of the Mercantile Metal Milling Co., as evidenced by certificate No. 1448, standing in the name of John W. Harrison, at the east front door of the Courthouse in the city of St. Louis, at the hour of 12 o'clock on the [illegible] day of September, 1907.

GEORGIA WIDOW IN TANGLE WITH RICH NEW YORKER

Says R. D. Buchanan Promised to Wed Her and Then Jilted Her.

THEY LIVED AT HOTELS

He "Settled" and She Alleges His Lawyer "Borrowed" All Her Money.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Jas. I. Moore, an attorney of 306 West Fifty-fourth street, will today move in the Supreme Court to have the case of Edna C. Cameron against William B. McNiece for the recovery of $1100, borrowed money, advanced upon the short calendar for October.

Under this apparently trivial cause lies buried material for several romances, a sermon or two and another alleged instance of abuse of power of the Detective Bureau of the city.

Mrs. Edna C. Cameron is a blonde, plump, pleasing of countenance and winsome in manner. She is 35 and says she is the widow of a prominent and wealthy Georgian. She names many prominent persons in Georgia as relatives by blood or marriage. She occupies a suite in the Hotel Rialto, 149 West Forty-fourth street.

William B. McNiece is an attorney at 128 Broadway. He is middle-aged, wears sandy side-whiskers and inclines to baldness, and has a wife and four children. Mrs. McNiece dresses fashionably and talks aggressively.

Mrs. Cameron's suit is but the initial action in a series of actions she says she contemplates bringing.

"Soon after I was widowed," she says, "I met Robert Douglas Buchanan, half brother of Mrs. R. G. Dunn, widow of R. G. Dunn of Dunn's Commercial Agency. Mr. Buchanan was a widower and the favorite brother of Mrs. Dunn, who inherited several millions upon the death of her husband.

Lived as Husband and Wife.

Mr. Buchanan immediately paid me marked attention, and within a short time induced me to go to the Savoy where we lived as Mr. and Mrs. R. Douglas. There we occupied an expensive suite and Mr. Buchanan showered presents upon me. We lived happily, without a care in the world.

"From the Savoy we moved to the Arlington, where we were registered as Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Buchanan, and everywhere Mr. Buchanan introduced me as his wife. We were engaged to be married, and I solemnly declare that I expected to be Mrs. Buchanan.

"Again we moved, this time to the Gotham, where we occupied a suite as Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan. Everywhere Mr. Buchanan went he took me, and he even took me to the home of his sister, Mrs. R. G. Dunn, at 261 Madison avenue, and showed me over the place from cellar to garret. Mr. Buchanan said he would marry me as soon as a proper time had elapsed since the death of his wife.

"Mr. Buchanan was kindness itself, paying for an expensive wardrobe and furnishing horses and carriages for me. About September of last year he made a couple of trips to Washington on business, he said.

"I afterward learned he had become engaged to a widow who had millions. But I was ignorant of all this at the time and implicitly trusted him.

"In October last, while we were dining at the Manhattan, Mr. Buchanan called over a sandy whiskered man to him and introduced him to me as the attorney employed by his brother, Dr. Buchanan, in some litigation over the estate of Mr. Dunn. The man was Mr. McNiece.

McNiece Was Attentive.

"Mr. McNiece at once paid marked attention to me. He subsequently intruded himself upon me and tried to poison my mind against Mr. Buchanan, and finally told me that he represented Robert D. Buchanan, who desired to be released from his promise to marry me. He said Mr. Buchanan mentioned making suitable provisions for me.

"I was heartbroken and at first refused to hear of any financial arrangement. But Mr. McNiece became so insistent that at length I permitted Buchanan to go and entered into negotiations with him looking toward a financial settlement. I had nothing but what Mr. Buchanan was giving me to live upon, my own funds having been swept away by bad investments.

"About this time Mr. McNiece told me he loved me, and induced me to take up my home in various hotels, where he paid my expenses.

"At first he was liberal, letting me understand that he was wealthy. Finally he came to me and told me that he had $2200 for me, all the money, he said, which was coming to me after he had deducted his own fee of $2800. I asked him if it was customary for lawyers to exact a fee from both sides and he said it was. He declared that all the money he got from Buchanan was $5000.

"I was ignorant, needed money and accepted the sum. I later learned that Mrs. Dunn gave $15,000 to settle the matter, it being represented to her that I would otherwise bring about a scandal. There was never any chance of my making a scandal of the affair, for I regarded Mr. Buchanan nightly.

"I continued to be supported by Mr. McNiece until about January last, when he came to me and told me he had temporary need for $250. I drew the sum out of the bank and gave it to him.

"Again on March 30 Mr. McNiece said he was in trouble and borrowed $350 from me in the Hamilton Hotel. On June 4 last McNiece came to me and got me to loan him $600 more. I did not have that much money, but went to my safe-deposit box, got all I had and raised the balance on some of my jewels.

"Immediately that he had stripped me of every dollar, leaving me not enough to pay my board bill, McNiece left me. I called him up on the phone and requested him to pay back the $1100 he had borrowed, but he pleaded that he could not spare it. I asked him to pay it back to me in the sums he had borrowed it. He reviled me, and told me that if I gave him any trouble he would put me in Jail, as he had powerful friends in the detective department. This was on July 7 or 8, and the next day there came a ring at the door of my apartment.

"The instant I unbolted the door men pushed it open violently and came into my apartment. 'We are Central Office detectives. We have a warrant for your arrest,' said one of them.

"I knew I had done nothing to subject me to arrest and faced the man. I said: 'If you have a warrant for me serve it and take me before a magistrate. What does your warrant charge.'

"Then the spokesman said: 'You are trying to blackmail Mr. McNiece, and you have got to stop it or you will go to the Island.'

"Then the detective who did the talking said: 'We haven't really got the warrant sworn to yet, but will if you don't promise to let Mr. McNiece alone.'

"After threatening me 'some more and promising to come back and take me to Jail if I insisted on suing McNiece, the men left and I swooned.

"I then determined to assert my rights and employed Mr. Moore.

"I have been hounded ever since and been threatened with arrest upon the street. Every friend I have on earth has been communicated with by phone and told that I am a bad woman and a blackmailer."

James I. Moore, Mrs. Cameron's attorney, said:

"Everything Mrs. Cameron tells you is corroborated by evidence at hand. I have indisputable proof that she did get the sums at the times she speaks of and did hand them over at the places she says.

"This is a legitimate suit for the recovery of money. If they show me she is a blackmailer, as they say, I will withdraw from the case."

McNiece Makes Denial.

William B. McNiece made a general denial of the facts. He was violent in his denunciation of Mrs. Cameron and again and again called her a blackmailer.

"I am a respectable, married man, with a wife and four children, the eldest 10 and the youngest 3," said he. "If this case is printed my home will be broken up. I deny that I was the lover of this woman.

"I paid over to her $5000 and got a release. That was all the money I got from Mr. Buchanan, and I paid every cent of it over to her."

Lieut. Bernard McConville has for years been one of the central office detectives stationed in and around Wall street. A reporter detailed the circumstances above narrated, and asked him for his version of the affair. He said that it was not the business of newspapers to inquire what detectives did or their methods.

"I do as I please, investigate as I please and won't answer for my actions," said he.

NEGRO HOSPITAL BUYS HOME

Building at 2824 Lawton Avenue to Be Opened Friday.

The Provident Hospital and Training School, for many years located at Beaumont and Morgan streets, has purchased at 2824 Lawton avenue a 12-room stone-front house, on a 50-foot lot, for $5000. A payment of $1000 was made in cash and $200 has been spent on the building, contributed by negroes. A debt of $4000 remains.

The hospital will be open for inspection Sept. 20, 21 and 22. Special dedicatory exercises will be held Sunday at 3 p. m. Provident Hospital was established for negroes and to prepare young women to serve as trained nurses.
